Is the butter "shortage" real or rigged by the industry?

End of Controls On Milk Sales Urged in House

Regulation Guarantees Profit To Select Class, Says M.L.A.

"This Government has just restored a competitive market in oil and petroleum products, why not do the same with milk?" A. J. McDonnell (Lib., Vancouver Centre) demanded yesterday in the Legislature.

Arguing for complete removal of milk controls in the province, Mr. McDonnell declared:

"With all the force at my command I demand of this Government, on behalf of my constituents, a competitive market in milk and milk products and this can only be brought about by striking from the statutes the acts under which our milk board operates."

"GUARANTEED PROFIT"

"Why should the milk producers and distributors be selected as one group to which my constituents must pay a guaranteed profit so that these producers and distributors shall have no competition and without competition there is no incentive for them to increase their efficiency, improve their economy of production, increase their production and lower the price," continued Mr. McDonnell.

"They are in a select class, selected by this Government, set up as a class of people who do not have to exert themselves in order that they may gain their livelihood. Their profits in their operation is guaranteed by Government regulation," he added.

The Vancouver member said it should be recognized that the price set by the milk board must insure a profit to the most inefficient and uneconomical producer in the area "and the price at which the distributor sells to the ultimate consumer must be such as will insure to the most inefficient and uneconomical distributor a profit."

"Remember that the machinery to guarantee these profits to producers and distributors was set up by this Government for the stated object of helping the great dairy industry, particularly the primary producers, the farmers," explained Mr. McDonnell. "And here we have this agency taking pennies out of the pockets of the farmers and putting them in the pockets of a group of distributors, say 4,328 farmers, 67 distributors, and approximately seven of these distributors distribute perhaps 80 per cent of the products of the 4,328 farmers."

Before Mr. McDonnell, several other members of the Legislature have asked that the province's one-man milk board be enlarged by addition of two additional members, one of them to be a woman.

An inquiry into milk distribution has also been suggested.

The Provincial Council of Women yesterday asked the Cabinet to make the milk board a three-member board, with a woman on the board.

A three-man milk board and Provincial rent controls were favored by Arthur Turner (C.C.F., Vancouver East).

Building Loan Boost Sought by Member

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP).—Increase in the amount of individual building loans under the National Housing Act will be sought in the Commons by Joseph Noseworthy (C.C.F., York South).

Mr. Noseworthy placed on the order paper today a resolution calling for the reinstatement of a loan provision recently abolished by the Government. That provision permitted N.H.A. loans larger than normal for home building.

Reconstruction Minister Winters recently announced it has been discontinued because the Government does not wish home-builders to start construction that could not be finished for lack of materials or labor.

Living Costs In New Index Public Today

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP).—The Government's latest survey on living costs in Canada will be made public tomorrow.

Though it will be, in many ways, indicative of consumer price trends, the Bureau of Statistics' cost-of-living index for January will not be a study of the entire price picture.

It will lack information on rents, a vital component of the prices barometer. Because of the difficulty of Winter travel, the bureau has made no detailed study of the rent picture since last October. A new survey may be made this month.

The index spurted to an all-time high of 172.5 in December, a 1.4-point climb from 171.1 in November. The index is based on 1935-39 prices equaling 100.

Meanwhile, the consumer price rise has continued, accompanied by equally strong rises on the wholesale side. Food, a major family budget item, jumped as an index sub-group to 220.2 in December from 199.4 a year ago, making a 20.8-point climb in 12 months.

Rent went to 136.4 in October from 123.9 in October, 1949, making for a 12.5-point gain in a year.

Ottawa Has 'No Apology' For Powers Being Asked

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP).—The Canadian Government makes "no apology" in asking for extraordinary powers at this time Trade Minister Howe said today.

The extraordinary powers sought, he told the Commons, were "fitted to the extraordinary circumstances of today."

"There will be little disagreement in any part of the House that speed in getting on with defence preparations is one of the utmost importance. This need for speed dictates the need for special powers both to requisition supplies and to direct production, as well as special authority to renegotiate contracts.

"The Government makes no apology for asking for these extensive powers at this time, and the record of its administration of similar powers which it exercised during the last war speaks for itself."

Mr. Howe spoke in asking for approval of a bill establishing a defence production department, which he will head.

Queuille Premier Designate

Bidault Unable to Form New French Government

PARIS, March 2 (AP).—Georges Bidault gave up today his attempt to form a new French Government and Henri Queuille became Premier-designate. Queuille and his Radical Socialist Party looked to a national referendum on a new election law as the only solution to the Cabinet crisis.

Leaders of the Radical Socialist Party which despite its name is conservative, supported Queuille in his efforts to form a Cabinet, but they were not hopeful.

Queuille, who was Premier more than a year in 1948-49, was called by President Vincent Auriol when Bidault, leader of the Roman Catholic Mouvement Republicain Populaire, dropped out.

The Radical Socialists and the M.R.P. are the two groups whose dispute over changes in the country's electoral law caused the downfall of Premier Rene Pleven's coalition Wednesday.

Some parliamentary sources said a Socialist might have a better chance of obtaining agreement on the troublesome election issue. The Socialists were in the Pleven coalition, but they were not one of the principals in the fight over the election law.

Radical Socialist leaders in a party caucus said the middle-road parties should either agree on a referendum or adopt a compromise whereby direct personal representation would be used in rural areas and proportional representation in city districts.

Canada Shuns Former Nazis

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP).—Trade Minister Howe told the Commons today the Government has no intention to have any "truck or trade" with former Nazis.

He made that interjection when H. W. Herridge (C.C.F., Kootenay West) said he was disturbed by reports that Germany's Alfred Krupp might come to Canada to seek markets.

Plane Crash Kills 15; Ten Escape

SIOUX CITY, Ia., March 2 (AP).—A Mid-Continent Airlines plane, making a second try for a landing here during a heavy snowstorm, crashed into a bordering cornfield today, killing 15 of the 25 persons aboard.

The twin-engined DC-3 burst into flames and was destroyed within a few minutes.

But ten survivors were extricated and rushed to Sioux City hospitals, at least four in possibly critical condition, the airline said.

The plane was on a scheduled flight from Kansas City to Minneapolis.

It was the first fatal crash for Mid-Continent in its 17-year history. Just last Tuesday, another Mid-Continent plane cracked up at Tulsa, Okla., but all occupants walked away from the wreckage. Six persons were injured, none critically.

Pilot of today's ill-fated plane was Capt. James Graham, 34.

LOST IN SNOW

Observers said Graham flew over the field once, went on to make a climbing turn to the left, then was lost to spectators in the storm. The crash was heard a few moments later. Graham was among those killed.

In addition to the pilot two other crew members lost their lives. They were co-pilot Philip K. Toler, 30, and first officer Ernest F. Eliert.

The stewardess, Marilyn Woodbury, of Kansas City, suffered severe cuts and a possible broken back, hospital authorities said.

Canada Sets Metal Rations

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP).—Metal rationing has started in Canada, Trade Minister Howe told the Commons today.

In the case of nickel, each customer is supplied on the basis of 65 per cent of his average monthly purchases during 1950.

Deafening Roar Heard For Six Miles

Gas to Heat City of 100,000 Blows Out Wild

EAGLESHAM, Alta., March 2 (CP).—Officials tonight were still unable to say definitely when a wild gas well which has been throwing up enough gas to supply a city of 100,000 people for the past ten days would be brought under control.

The wild well is located about 22 miles northeast of here and has been spewing up gas at an estimated rate of 50,000,000 cubic feet a day.

It is situated right in the middle of some swampy timber land and is owned jointly by the Hudson Bay Oil & Gas Co. and the Union Oil Co. of California.

Flow from this well consists mainly of salt water and gas and pressure from the water is sending up a deafening roar which can be heard for six miles.

One worker said it sounded like a huge engine in the distance.

Danger of fire has resulted in company officials prohibiting the area to sightseers and only workers are allowed to enter the restricted zone.

Officials appeared optimistic, however, that they could prevent a fire and the danger period of fire being caused by friction of rocks now was believed over.

The well first broke loose February 20 when a blow-out preventer failed while drillpipe was being pulled out after a test. This allowed gas and water to burst out between the surface casing and the drillpipe.

It was first reported to have been tamed but broke loose again the following day and the pressure knocked some massive well-head equipment out of place allowing about 2,200 feet of drillpipe to fall down the hole.

Drill crews have been trying to "kill" the flow since then by pumping heavy mud down the hole, but a combination of the gas and water flow and icing and fog have hampered their efforts.

Crews today started to move the derrick and other equipment out of the way to improve working conditions around the hole.

The next step will be to hook up new head controls to pump weighting materials down the well.

Unofficially it has been reported that flow from the well is the greatest in Alberta's history.

Eaglesham is about 250 miles northwest of Edmonton.

South Koreans Hit Furious Opposition

U.S. Marines Sweep North From Captured Hoengsong

TOKIO, March 3 (Saturday) (AP).—United States Marines today pushed north of captured Hoengsong on the third day of their central Korea attack but South Koreans on their left flank ran into furious Chinese opposition.

The Marines, who overran war-wrecked Hoengsong Friday, resumed their drive at 8 a.m. north of that highway junction. The Chinese resisted with small arms from dug-in positions in the hills.

Five miles west of Hoengsong, the South Korean 6th Division's bayonets ousted Reds from a vital hill. The two-hour fight was heavily supported by artillery and planes.

The pursuing South Koreans then ran into wire entanglements, additional proof that the Reds mean to make a fight for the road forking west of Hoengsong 17 miles to Yongdu.

CANADIANS ADVANCE

On the Marines' left flank, British, Canadian, New Zealand and Australian troops drove north against stiffening Chinese resistance in the Yongdu area.

The U.S. 2nd and 7th Divisions, operating farther east, made new gains. The 2nd occupied more hills north of the lateral Pangnim-Hoengsong highway. The 7th sent patrols north of captured Amidong to within 26 miles of the 38th Parallel.

South Korean naval headquarters disclosed two more commando raids by Republican Marines in the Haeju area, about 90 miles northwest of Seoul and within five miles of the 38th Parallel. The raiders attacked two communications bases.

RESCUE

The raiders said they rescued 96 citizens detained by the Reds.

Allied planes Friday spotted the heaviest enemy traffic in three weeks on roads in North Korea. Pilots counted 500 vehicles.

Pilots estimated they inflicted more than 500 enemy troops casualties Friday in close combat support.

The Marine occupation of Hoengsong Friday was unopposed. Marines and South Korean troops east of Hoengsong and Commonwealth and American troops to the west fought stubbornly to keep the United Nations attack moving forward in the face of desperate local counter-attacks.

From 12 to 15 Russian-made jets braved the North Korean skies for brief encounters with the U.S. Fifth Air Force. No casualties were reported from the air fights but two U.S. Mustangs were shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

BULLETINS

J. C. Ross Dies

TORONTO, March 2 (CP).—John Charles Ross, former newspaperman and friend of the late William Lyon Mackenzie King, died at his home here today. A life-long Liberal, Mr. Ross became a personal friend of the Prime Minister while taking an active part in many political campaigns.

Pay Bill Denied

TORONTO, March 2 (CP).—The Ontario Government has not decided to introduce legislation that would make equal pay for men and women workers compulsory, Premier Frost said today in the Legislature.

(A Toronto newspaper today said such legislation was planned this session.)

British House Criticizes Supply Lack

LONDON, March 2 (CP).—The House of Commons today passed a motion criticizing the Labor Government's failure to stockpile after Trade Minister Harold Wilson said that supply shortages now are this country's gravest economic problem.

The Commons then carried by 167 votes to 163—little more than half the members of Parliament were present—a Conservative opposition motion which regretted the Government hadn't built up substantial reserve stocks earlier, or made more use of private traders rather than relying on Government buying.

Wilson shrugged off the result, saying he would draw it to the attention of deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison.

Ronald Russell, who opened the debate for the Conservatives, criticized the Government for not buying more materials in 1950 when prices were lower.

He said that while imports from the world as a whole were 14 per cent greater in value in 1950 compared with 1949, British imports from Canada were 20 per cent lower.

Last Group Now in Vancouver

Few Korea-Bound Troops Get Leave

OTTAWA, March 2. — The "great majority" of the 5,000 Korea-bound Canadian soldiers at Fort Lewis, Wash., won't be getting home before they fail for the battlefront, Defence Minister Claxton said today.

The army said later that between 125 and 150 men will be given a full 72 hours or three days leave at home. The minister said the others have already had embarkation leave.

One hundred and fifty Canadian Special Force soldiers arrived in Vancouver tonight to start their leave. The first bus arrived at the Salvation Army Hostel and all but a couple were placed with Vancouver residents who offered earlier in the week to open their homes to the soldiers.

There was no announcement of when the 25th Brigade will leave Fort Lewis to take ship for Korea, probably at Seattle. However, there were indications it would go in about another two weeks.

SAIL IN U.S. SHIPS

The men are expected to sail aboard U.S. troop transports with their equipment and weapons going at about the same time by other ships.

The army said the bulk of the men in the brigade had leaves either before they left Canadian camps for Fort Lewis or since going to that U.S. base for final training.

Those 125 to 150 men who are going to get home will do so at Government expense, as the others did, and will travel by air or train. Those who live in the East, for instance, are expected to travel by air.

They will have three full days at home regardless of how long is needed for travel.

No Leaflet Ban For Individuals

TORONTO, March 2 (CP).—Any person has the right to distribute pamphlets from house to house containing his political or religious views providing he is not carrying on a business as bill distributor, the Ontario Appeal Court ruled today.

Douglas Irving, Ottawa sheet metal worker and a member of the Socialist Labor Party, thus won his appeal from a fine of $10 and costs of $1 imposed by Magistrate O'Connor of Ottawa. The magistrate had been upheld by Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder and the appeal was from this ruling.

Andrew Brewin acted as counsel for Irving at the request of the Civil Liberties Association, which regarded the appeal as a test case in defence of civil liberties.

High Bail Set In Drug Case

VANCOUVER, March 2 (CP).—The highest bail in Vancouver court history—$25,000—was set today for a Moose Jaw youth committed for trial on two drug charges.

Robert T. Boyle, 20, was one of three youths on trial yesterday. The others were William Wallace and Jack Reid.

All were held on charges of possession of narcotics.

Islander To Head Naden

A Vancouver Island officer is returning to the Pacific Command to assume one of the district's senior naval appointments.

He is Capt. Ernest P. Tisdall, a native of Somenos, who is now on the way to Esquimalt to take over as commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Naden.

Capt. ERNEST P. TISDALL

Capt. Tisdall succeeds Commodore G. R. Miles, the popular officer whose sudden death after a heart attack occurred here last month.

News of the appointment was learned unofficially last night by The Daily Colonist.

SON OF JURIST

Capt. Tisdall is the son of a well-known Island jurist, Magistrate G. Tisdall of Duncan. Married and the father of two sons and two daughters, he will be joined by his family at Naden shortly.

He was formerly director-general of naval ordnance at Ottawa. His appointment to this post at the age of 42 reflects a brilliant career in Canada's Navy. His father described him as "very keen" on his service career.

His service began at Naden as a cadet.

Pearkes Asks For Wharves

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP).—Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. (P.C.-Nanaimo) urged the Government tonight to provide additional wharves for the shipment of lumber from Vancouver Island.

He reported in the Commons that small lumber operators on the Island were experiencing difficulty in shipping their products while big companies could build their own wharves, small operators depended on Government facilities.

King Suffering Cold, Fever

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—The King nursed a cold and fever tonight. Sneezes forced him to cancel his engagements next week.

The King was operated on two years ago to correct a block in the circulation in his right leg. His health since then has been generally good.

Evening newspapers gave the news of his illness their biggest headlines. The King's doctors visited him tonight for a routine check-up, but were so little worried that they didn't issue a night bulletin on his condition.

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

DORCHESTER—A double-deck bus and a train brought us from Poole and Wareham to this ancient capital of the county of Dorset, where Stone Age men chipped their axes, Roman legions marched and the black Judge Jeffreys drowned the enemies of the Stewarts in blood.

Here Thomas Hardy lived and wrote for many years. Dorchester was the "Casterbridge" of his novels.

Dorchester was old and battle-worn when the Romans arrived and made it their town of Durnovaria, an important way-point on the Via Icenii, the great road from Salisbury to Exeter. Centuries later Dorchester was a hot partisan of Parliament in the Civil War. The Earl of Carnaryon took it without a shot for King Charles, but it was finally captured and held for Parliament by the Earl of Essex.

The town backed Monmouth in his abortive rebellion, and James II sent Judge Jeffreys to try Monmouth sympathizers in the infamous "Bloody Assize," which began at Dorchester on September 3, 1685.

My wife and I had tea in the inn where Jeffreys was supposed to have lodged during the trials. We sat in his courtroom chair at Dorset County Museum, and toured through the museum's rich store of treasures, which ranged from fossils of extinct monsters to a perfect Victorian doll's house and a sampler embroidered with the following smug words:

"Next unto God, dear Parents, I address
Myself in humble thankfulness
For all your care and charge on me bestowed
The means of learning unto me allowed
Go on, I pray, and let me still pursue
The Golden Arts the Vulgar never knew.
Mary Smith in the 11 year of her age, 1798."

We saw, among many priceless things, a hoard of Roman coins turned green with age; the elaborate tiled floors of Roman houses and baths; a fragment of a Roman wall with a Latin scribble proclaiming that "Paturnus wrote this"; pottery and glassware 1,600 years old; much older utensils from the Stone, Bronze and Iron Ages; a little bone figure of a legionary, which had been a child's toy; and a lead water pipe from a Roman villa.

I was surprised to learn that some houses in Roman Britain had central heating and water laid on.

There were shepherds' smocks of the style worn in Dorset until recent years; wooden firkins and stone "owls" in which farm workers carried their cider out to the fields; old flails and shepherds' crooks; and a hollow metal "boot" which used to be filled with beer and thrust into a fire to mull the drink.

In the Thomas Hardy memorial room were handwritten manuscripts by Hardy and by William Barnes, the Dorset dialect poet, with scratchings-out and corrections.

Hardy had drawn a careful map of his "Wessex," which was the real West country with fictional names imposed on it. Wareham was Anglebury; Bere Regis was Kingsbere; Bournemouth was Sandbourne; Poole was Havenpoole; Weymouth was Budmouth; and Cornwall was Lyonesse.

We flicked a light switch and looked through a window into the reconstructed study where Hardy worked during his years at Dorchester. There were Hardy's own books, his 'cello and his grandfather clock, and the very pen with which he had written "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," "Jude the Obscure" and "The Dynasts."

Elsewhere was a model sailing ship made by John Masefield, and inscribed: "For Thomas Hardy, poet, from John Masefield, poet, with admiration and homage."

Some earnest folk deride this prowling among relics as vulgar tourism, but I like it. Celebrated men appear to be something more than human until a glimpse of the ordinary things they touched brings them to earth.

You can read yourself blind, but you can never make a remote place or a remote age your own until you look upon some solid part of it. That's the chief virtue of museums for the layman. The specialist goes into a museum to think and measure but the layman goes there to feel. It gives him a pleasant chill to dip his fingers in the stream of time.

The Romans are so far away from the ordinary man that he fails to construct a breathing image of them, or else sees them through a mist as legendary giants. A cartload of fat books won't bring them to life.

The ordinary man, if he wants to think about the Romans, needs small tangible things to serve as a bridge and a crutch to his imagination: Coins, buttons, door handles, gambling tokens; a Roman child's toy and a Roman soldier's scribble on a wall.

The museum attendant apologized to us for charging the admittance fee of a shilling. He said it was necessary because the museum was privately run, and had to pay for itself.

The attendant stroked a fat cat which was sleeping in a box. When we admired it he said, again rather apologetically, that it didn't really belong here, but plagued him every day for food and had commandeered the box. He was just going to put it outside, box and all, for the evening.

I asked him whether he liked a job which gave him a chance to roam through the centuries. He said he liked the job fine, but the place was so big that when he had finished cleaning one part he had to start immediately on another.

"When I started here I was all for looking over the old stuff every chance I got," he said. "But the novelty's worn off now. I keep too busy washing the floor."

Island Circled Off Against U.N. Bombs

LONDON, March 2 (Reuters)—A black circle rings the island of Chayaku Ko on the war maps of the United Nations armies in Korea.

It means no bombs or shells are to be dropped there.

Because, the British Admiralty explained yesterday, it was there that the British cruiser Ceylon found 20 little orphan children naked and starving in bitterly cold weather.

The ship's company adopted them, fed and clothed them, chopped firewood and left them supplies for the Winter.

Divorce Bills Start Uproar

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP).—A noisy, angry debate on the way Parliament handles divorces developed tonight in the Commons when members were asked to adopt bills granting divorces to 83 couples.

One member—Jean Richard (L., Ottawa East)—stomped from the Chamber and said he would not be a party to passage of the bills.

Another member — Wilfrid Lacroix (L., Quebec-Montmorency)—shouted that all the bills should be "killed." That was the only way Parliament would free itself of the task of passing on divorce cases.

Quebec and Newfoundland divorces now are referred to Parliament.

$65,000,000 Paid Into Pool

Government Makes Wheat Payment

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP)—The Government has decided to sugar the Canadian Wheat Board pool with a $65,000,000 contribution towards a final settlement of a controversial five-year wheat pool that ended last year.

That, added to the money still in the pool treasury, will bring to $120,000,000 the amount Western farmers will get as a final clean-up payment for the 1,428,000,000 bushels delivered for sale by the Wheat Board.

Cheques likely will go to them in about a month, as soon as the board clears away distribution of about $100,000,000 in interim payments under 1950-51 pools, for wheat, oats and barley. These cheques start moving March 9.

This big chunk of purchasing power is additoinal to the more than $2,000,000,000 already paid to the farmers under the five-year pool, on the basis of $1.75 a bushel for No. 1 Northern. The final payment—8.3 cents a bushel—brings this price to $1.83.

LONG-DEBATED QUESTION

The Government's contribution, long a question of debate, was announced today in the Commons by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Some 600,000,000 of the 1,428,000,000 bushels of the pool wheat went to Britain under the four-year Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement, with Britain paying $1.55 a bushel for No. 1 Northern in the first two years and $2 a bushel in the last two years.

Under a "have regard" clause in the agreement, Britain took cognizance of the fact that she got Canadian wheat at below world prices in the first two years of the agreement and would increase the price in the last two years accordingly. Farmers have protested that the increase to $2 a bushel was not enough.

Mr. St. Laurent told the Commons that Britain made it clear that no further payment will be made by that country under the 1946-50 agreement.

Social Credit and C.C.F. members indicated they didn't think the settlement was big enough.

Equipment Reaches Road Site of Alcan

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP).—Road construction equipment worth $500,000 has been unloaded at Vanderhoof, 80 miles west of here, where a road to the Aluminum Company of Canada dam site on the Nechako River is to be built.

Officials of Mannix Construction Company said no contract has yet been signed with Alcan for road construction but the presence of construction men and equipment was considered indicative of an agreement.

Kerrisdale Arena Receipts Stolen

VANCOUVER, March 2 (CP).—Armed burglars escaped early today with between $3,000 and $4,000 from Kerrisdale Arena.

They bound the night watchman, dragged a safe across the ice from the arena to a shower room where they cracked it open.

Police suspect the robbers hid in the arena after last night's Nanaimo-Kerrisdale Okanagan Hockey League game.

The original St. Giles' Church at Reading, England, dates from some years prior to 1190.

FLUID DRIVE
You can't imagine how smooth and easy truck operation can be until you've tried FARGO Fluid Drive! It provides a "power cushion" in the drive line that protects over 80 vital parts from excessive shock and strain. FARGO Fluid Drive is optional on all ½ and ¾-1 ton models.

LONGER VALVE LIFE
On the 3-ton and up—the FARGOS designed to do the especially heavy jobs—new sodium-cooled, stellite-faced, exhaust valves provide extremely long valve life and better valve sealing. This greatly increased valve life means less tear-down for valve grinding and thus keeps your FARGO on the job.

EASIER LOADING
Re-designed rear springs provide a lower ground-to-floor height without affecting ground-to-axle clearance. Particularly helpful when loading heavy objects.

BETTER FUEL SYSTEM
A new, larger-capacity fuel pump delivers a greater flow of fuel without building up pressure in the lines. This means more even, more dependable power under all loads and freedom from carburetor flooding on starting.

EASIER HANDLING
This well-known FARGO feature is further improved by the addition of new worm-and-roller steering gears. FARGO is easier to handle and more comfortable to drive. FARGO'S cross-type steering permits greatly reduced turning circles—both right and left.

IMPROVED IGNITION AND ELECTRICAL SYSTEM
Better bad-weather starting is assured by the use of moulded synthetic spark plug covers and a high-torque starting motor. A larger, 45-amp. generator takes care of a higher accessory load with less drain on the battery. 50-amp. and 55-amp. generators are available for special purposes.

PLUS MANY OTHER CHRYSLER-ENGINEERED FEATURES THAT MAKE FARGO TRUCKING MORE PROFITABLE!

TRUCKERS: These new 1951 FARGO trucks have been designed and built only after our careful on-the-job study of what truckers, in many fields of work, want in a truck. It is only natural, therefore, that you will find in these new FARGOS easier handling, easier loading, greater driver comfort, longer truck life—and many FARGO features that reduce trucking costs and increase trucking profits. We firmly believe these new 1951 FARGO trucks come closer to satisfying your trucking requirements than any truck in FARGO'S history.

City Lions Club Host to Visitors

AROUND TOWN

There were almost as many visitors as there were members at yesterday's Empress Hotel luncheon meeting of the Victoria Lions Club. Among those honored with the singing of the local club's guest song were 28 members of the Mount Pleasant Lions Club, of Vancouver, headed by its president, Al Mathews.

The Mainland group arrived here by plane late yesterday morning, and during the afternoon attended the sitting of the Provincial Legislature, where a fellow club member, Alan McDonell, M.L.A., was among the speakers.

Among other guests at the meeting were Harry Palmerston, district governor; William Waldie, Vancouver, past district governor; Ralph Stevens, of Forks, Wash., zone chairman; Arthur Poulton, president of the Port Angeles Lions Club, and John Sandquist, president of the Forks, Wash., Lions Club.

The visitors were welcomed by George Thackray, president of the local Lions group.

Feature of the program was the showing of the color film "Dust or Destiny," produced by the Moody Institute of Science." It dealt with the wonders of life itself.

RECORDS SMASHED

February was a record-smashing construction month in Victoria, according to figures released yesterday by the city building inspector's office.

Issued were 167 permits for construction valued at $312,927. In the corresponding month last year only 149 permits were taken out for construction worth $543,350.

HAD NO LICENCES

Three Victorians paid fines in city police court yesterday when they entered guilty pleas to charges of failing to have trades licences.

George Bun, 613 Herald Street, operator of a car repair shop, and Gordon Lamont, 1806 Government Street, an upholsterer, each were fined $15 and $2.50 costs.

Mrs. Mabel L. Banks, 546 Michigan Street, rooming-house proprietor, was fined $18 and $2.50 costs.

Charges were laid by the city trades licence department.

First Results Gratifying In Red Cross Campaign

First-day results of the current Red Cross drive for $67,000 here are "very gratifying," an official at campaign headquarters said yesterday.

Nearly 1,000 canvassers took advantage of bright sunshine yesterday and were welcomed at Victoria homes by equally sunny smiles.

Campaign organizers say they could still use many more canvassers. Present good weather is ideal time for making "the rounds," they said.

About 300 more workers would bring the collection units up to sufficient strength to cover the whole city.

Figures on collections during the first few days of the campaign will be available Monday after a complete audit, officials said.

An enthusiastic group of approximately 150 persons, traveling under sponsorship of the Olympic Peninsula Resort and Hotel Association, will conduct its 12th annual "invasion" of Victoria this morning.

The group is due here this morning aboard the ferry Chinook. The visitors will be guests of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

The group will go on a sightseeing tour of the city and district, will have lunch at the Olde English Inn, and tonight attend a dinner at the Empress Hotel. Members of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team will provide entertainment. Mayor Percy E. George and city aldermen have been invited to attend.

The party will include Claude O. Walker of Quinault, Wash., president of the association; Edward Pettig, Portland, representing the Oregon State Hotel Association; W. F. Badley, Otter Rock, Oregon, president of the Oregon Coast Association; William A. Bugge, Olympia, director of the Washington State Highway Department; Ray Conway, Portland, manager of the Oregon State Motor Association; Jack Gregory, Seattle, manager of the Washington State Motor Association; Manley F. Postman's Added Burden Being Surveyed in City

A "spot check" is under way in Victoria to determine just how heavy a load the postman is packing now that the one-delivery-a-day is in effect in the city.

The Letter Carriers' Association membership here said yesterday it was not too pleased about the investigation of the one-delivery system.

Harold Pretty, president of the local association, said further comment on the situation would be forthcoming after the spot check, which started yesterday, was completed.

Some routes in the city were undoubtedly too long under the new system, he stated.

J. R. Sinclair, postmaster for Victoria reported the check was being carried out by the supervisor of mail carriers who would accompany the different carriers on their routes to see just how heavy their burden had become.

FOLLOWS PROTEST

The statements here followed a report from Toronto where letter carriers were said to be protesting what they called "impossible working conditions" under the Federal Government's economy order that went into effect last week.

The economy drive is aimed at a reduction of civil service staffs by 5,000 by the end of April.

Heavier packs and an increase in the carriers' daily walking distance were named in the Toronto dispatch as results of the one-delivery-a-day policy and the consolidation of some routes to spread the work among a cut-down staff.

Victoria's postmaster said the rearranged routes were undoubtedly heavy and "some may still require adjustment."

The president of the local Letter Carriers' Association said protest against the one-delivery plan was general across Canada.

In Victoria, he said, the system was not working "too smoothly." He described the local situation as "uncertain" with details still to be worked out.

Air Force Veterans Changing Minds; Hundreds Ask About Re-Enlistment

Attitude of veterans towards the air force seems to have changed in the last few months, officials of the R.C.A.F. recruiting office on Government Street said yesterday.

Hundreds of air and ground crew veterans have made inquiries at the office during the past month and most have decided they would like to be back in uniform again.

At the end of the World War most of these same men were only too anxious to get back to civvy street. Discharges were received and uniforms either hidden away or discarded.

Women too seem to have caught the fever and the list of applicants for the women's division continues to grow at the recruiting office.

Already W.D.'s uniforms are being manufactured in Eastern Canada according to Ottawa reports. Indications are that recruiting may start in April, which is the beginning of the fiscal year for the air force.

It was also learned unofficially that the air force has set up establishments for women to be aero-engine and airframe mechanics, aircraft electricians and instrument mechanics.

Since the age limit has been lifted for former aircrew members from 30 to 35, applications are increasing.

Pilots and navigators only are being accepted. The first Victoria re-enlistments are expected to head for Eastern Canada on a refresher flying training course in the next few weeks.

In the ground crew trades, Flt.-Lieut Hugh Campbell, recruiting officer, said experienced cooks are urgently needed at training stations now being re-activated. They must be between the ages of 17 and 40 years.

Found Guilty Of Vagrancy, Woman Jailed

Barbara George, Indian, was sentenced to 15 days in jail by Magistrate H. C. Hall yesterday in city police court, after she was convicted of vagrancy.

The accused had been convicted on charges of intoxication ten times in 1949 and four times in 1950, court was told.

Joseph George, charged with being intoxicated, was granted suspended sentence after he told the magistrate that he was the sole support of his bed-ridden 90-year-old mother. There was only one day's food in the house, George said.

Forbes A. Henry, 1721 Fairfield Road, was remanded without plea to Monday on a charge of dangerous driving, laid following a collision in which damage totaled $600.

A charge of careless driving against Herbert E. Jobbins, 847 Cornwall Street, was dismissed.

His first position with city was secretary to fire chief in 1912. He became last person to hold land commissioner's job, position having recently been abolished.

First of Automatic Street Lights Put Into Operation on Fort Street

First section of a photo-electrically controled street lighting plan was put into operation Thursday night in the Dardanelles section of Fort Street.

Kenneth Reid, superintendent of the city street lighting department, said yesterday the low-voltage, multiple lighting plan was in operation between Yates and Ash Streets and soon would be continued to the city limits at Foul Bay Road.

Mr. Reid explained that the system was completely automatic, controled from a photo-electric cell which automatically turned the lights on at darkness and off at daylight.

APPROVED LAST YEAR

The plan was approved last year by the City Council. When completed, it will cover 15 miles of streets.

The installation, just completed on Fort Street, involves 30 lights. The city intends to equip similarly the majority of the city's arterial streets, installing about 600 units of this type within the current year.

Among the streets coming under the plan are Hillside Avenue, Quadra Street, Cook Street, Haultain Street and Fort Street. Quadra Street work will start as soon as material is available.

MADE BY CITY

Each unit is mounted on an ornamental upsweep bracket. All the brackets are being manufactured at the city's Garbally Road yard, where they can be made more economically than if they were purchased.

Mr. Reid added that his department was dating all the new mercury vapor lamps when installed or replaced, and keeping records of their operation. If a lamp failed to reach its guaranteed life, he said, the manufacturer would be notified and the lamp replaced. He said a daily log sheet was maintained on the life and operation of each lamp could be recorded.

Sprinkler System Checks Kiln Fire

Fire which broke out in a Horton Shingle Mill dry kiln yesterday after a spark from a burner set shingles ablaze was checked by the plant sprinkler system until city firemen arrived.

An overheated chimney started a fire on the roof of a greenhouse on property of Senator G. H. Barnard, 1462 Rockland Avenue.

Damage was reported slight in both fires.

Hospital Co-Insurance the Fairest Remedy

As goes along, more and more private members are coming out in favor of a reorganization of the hospital insurance plan that would return to those who benefit under it some financial responsibility in addition to premium payments. The Government has yet to indicate what proposals, if any, it has prepared to put the scheme back on its feet; but it seems clear from speeches in the House thus far that the feeling is strongly against closing the gap solely by raising the premium rates.

Experience of the past three years has demonstrated that the originators of the British Columbia scheme were more visionary than practical. They wanted to make it possible for anybody to go into hospital if hospitalization was necessary, and to leave without owing a penny for accommodation there. Premiums were to take care of the hospitals' operating costs and assure them a steady and sufficient income without effort on their part. The plan was presented in such a convincing way that the Legislature rushed to adopt it, without pausing to [illegible] that hard-headed insurance companies with long experience do not give coverage like that, except at rates few could pay.

If premiums alone are to continue to carry the scheme, as was intended in the beginning, then rates would have to be set so much higher than they are now that a large part of the population could not afford to pay them. On the other hand these are the very people who could least afford to be without the protection hospital insurance provides. Something therefore has to be done to bring in extra revenue without overloading premiums and without resorting to subsidies, which would be contrary to the whole spirit of the plan and would merely shift the burden to the other shoulder.

The best solution seems to be a system of co-insurance under which the patient would pay a small part of the bill, subject of course to existing exemptions. Whatever remedy is introduced, the Government will encounter some opposition, but the co-insurance idea seems assured of more general support than any other. Certainly nothing has yet been suggested that would meet a difficult situation more fairly.

Province Should Not Raid Pension Funds

If the Provincial Government is wise it will go slowly in making any alteration in the Teachers Pension Act that could be interpreted as a breach of faith with the contributors or, what would be as bad, a filching from a surplus to which the teachers can point as due in part to their own efforts. If, as the teachers assert, the Province pledged itself to contribute to the fund at the fixed rate of seven per cent in perpetuity, any relapse from that position now would be construed as a breach of faith.

What seems to be bothering the Administration is the surplus in the service pension account, but no one section of the scheme can be detached and adjudged by itself. If the whole scheme is actuarially sound now, that is because in considerable measure the teachers themselves pitched in to help make it so. They paid more than their share of the scheme at a time when its financing was less secure than today it is. To seize, then, on one special account and make that the excuse for reducing the Province's pledged contribution would be both unfair and unwise.

With considerable merit, the teachers point out that their pensions in British Columbia average $70 per month, which reduces to about $50 a month on a joint-life or last survivor basis. They argue that if the surplus is to be used it should be devoted to a small increase in pension payments against the greater needs of the day. Whether that point is acceded to or not, however, the salient point is that the Government is both trustee of and contributor to the fund, and its obligations as trustee cannot be laid aside.

The Outlook Is Not Promising, But . . .

Once more the foreign ministers of Britain, France, Russia and the United States are getting ready to sit down at a table and thresh out their differences. So many meetings of this kind in the past have come to nothing that no great optimism is attached to this resumption of direct diplomatic consultation. Quite openly, for instance, American officials discount any chance of a real peace effort emerging from the conferences.

It will be the job of the foreign deputies meeting in Paris on Monday to lay the groundwork for a later conference of their chiefs to be held in Washington. The initial spadework will cover the subjects to be dealt with, perhaps the most important item of all. If the Washington gathering is not to discuss all East-West differences, but merely Korea, it might as well not be held. Korea is the current hot spot but the real threat to world peace lies further afield.

Many people will think in any case that another "Big Four" meeting is just so much waste of time, and so it may prove to be. Unless Russia really has in mind concessions that so far she has shown not the slightest willingness to concede, the meeting will be abortive. However, on the basis that consultation even without tangible result is better than none at all, the Western powers are prepared to have another try. Who knows, after all, what miracle might occur. Previous meetings promised well but ended in failure; perhaps one that opens in doubt may reverse the result.

Letters and Excerpts

Letters to the editor on any topic of genuine interest are welcome if they are brief, accurate and fair. No letter will be inserted in whole, or in part, except over the proper signature and address of the writer. Unsolicited correspondence cannot be returned.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

Sir,—A public statement of the hospital insurance accounts is long overdue. As the people are now compelled to support the hospitals, they are entitled to know how the money is being spent.

Personal correspondence with the above service has brought to light the surprising fact that they have not even yet any routine by which they can check up on those who have paid the tax and those who have not.

A private institution would have used the voters' lists or a post office directory. But no, there are still plenty of people who declare publicly that they have never paid their premiums and don't intend to do so.

These unpaid premiums would amount to a large sum but, apart from this, an organized routine check would provide some slight employment for the vast army of clerks that inhabit the offices of the hospital insurance.

It has been said that the hospitals themselves are not blameless in taking advantage of Crown support. Perhaps this is the reason that one Victoria hospital has raised its administrative salaries so lavishly, taking its cue from the local politicians, who levied a 3 per cent sales tax and raised their own salaries.

DRIVERS' LICENCES

Sir,—It seems very unfair that elderly people with a good driving record over a long period should be deprived of the right to drive a car for the rest of their lives unless very good cause can be shown why they should not drive.

A test imposed by a bureau of optometrists is not in itself sufficient. As one or more of one's faculties fail with age, so are those remaining made more acute. In effect, elderly people are deprived of the use of their cars because they become more cautious.

People not so old, with a driving record which indicates a carefree attitude toward the lives of others, are permitted to drive after a period of suspension.

I agree with Sir E. W. Petter, the facts being as he says they are, that in this case the deprivation of the right ever to drive a car again in British Columbia is a gross injustice. A practical driving test, with consideration of his driving record, should overcome an arbitrary optometrist's pronouncement, and legislators should see to it that the humanities are uppermost in their minds when making regulations for the well-being of the citizens, young and old.

CLOCK FOR BUILDING?

Sir,—A large and suitable clock upon the façade of the British Columbia Power Commission's new building, facing the junction of Blanchard and Burdett Avenue, would be an addition of much value, providing an unfailing guide to the staff, and a boon to the numerous motorists hurrying down to the docks or to the bus depot . . .

"I Climbed a Hill . . ."

I climbed a hill as light fell short,
And rooks came home in scramble sort,
And filled the trees and flapped and fought
And sang themselves to sleep;
An owl from nowhere with no sound
Swung by and soon was nowhere found,
I heard him calling half-way round,
Holloing loud and deep:
A pair of stars, faint pins of light,
Then many a star, sailed into sight,
And all the stars, the flower of night,
Were round me at a leap;
To tell how still the valleys lay
I heard a watchdog miles away . . .
And bells of distant sheep.

Sea-Lore Club

By FRANK KELLEY

THROUGH the courtesy of Captain Frank Baylis, who for some years has been prominently identified with the Thermopylae Club, a group of Victorians devoted to sea-lore and the ships that trafficked upon the great oceans, I have been privileged to look over the "log" of the organization's cruising from a day in late 1932, when the first ship's company were "signed on" at a gathering held in the local Y.M.C.A. The ship, named Thermopylae, got under weigh then and "dropped the pilot" shortly after.

* * *

An initial meeting, at the home of Major Longstaff, had talked of raising the famous old clipper from its oozy bed off the coast of Portugal, and the upshot was that the ship-lovers' society was founded by Major Longstaff, R. L. James, F. W. Kemp, J. A. Philipsen, W. T. Thorne, C. D. Neroutsos, T. Mackenzie, A. M. Davies, A. McDonald, W. T. M. Barrett, H. D. Mathias, N. P. Blandy and O. P. Baker.

Having chosen Captain Philipsen as Supercargo, or Secretary, the "salts" decided the objects of the organization, as Victoria was the home of many retired sea-farers, would be to provide the opportunity for them to meet at certain intervals, get acquainted, swap yarns, and to "take aboard" any shore-siders who might appreciate the "voyaging" in a once-in-a-while association with "men who had gone down to the sea in ships and done business in great waters."

* * *

The real cruise began when "articles" were read and the ship's company "signed on." In addition to the crew members already named others signing the "articles" were D. J. Butler, F. Robertson, W. de Grouchy, M. A. Bridgman and G. Kirkendale. Since that time, the cruising under properly executed "clearance papers" has covered many miles of memory for "all hands and the cook." Up until the end of December, 1949, when the pages of this first "logbook" had been filled, the doings of 169 "dog-watches" have been "logged."

* * *

In varied recollections recalled for the benefit of their shipmates and "logged," crew members have recalled considerable nautical history as well as some interesting yarns in connection with their own sea-faring. While those reminiscences are not set down in detail (quite impossible under the circumstances) this "logbook" could be the source of many a salty tale for a young writer with a yen for this kind of material; for it was, probably still is, the practice to keep a copy of all stories told on file, the teller being obliged to furnish such a copy.

* * *

For example, here's a sample of what the record contains. It has wide interest, too. The yarn tells how a certain well-known hymn originated. A steamer with 700 passengers aboard while crossing the North Atlantic ran into a series of baffling gales, which halted her progress. The ship began to leak badly and in spite of efforts made to keep the water down, the engine-room was flooded and the fires put out.

* * *

Drifting helplessly, the steamer was passed by a ship of the Packet Class, which could extend no help at the time and had to be on her way. That ship was followed by another craft under sail, which managed to launch a boat and take off about one hundred souls, all she could carry and accommodate. Gale followed gale until another ship, a larger one, hove in sight one evening and made the signal: "I will stand by till the morning."

On the next morning she was there and between seas some two hundred passengers were taken off. Then two more sailing ships chanced along and during lulls three hundred more were rescued. Nothing more was ever heard of that stricken ship.

Reporting From Ottawa

TIME was, not so long ago, when Hon. Lester Bowles Pearson never wore anything around his neck but a bow tie, and never answered to any name but Mike.

But not now. The Secretary of State for External Affairs is appearing more and more frequently in an ordinary cravat — a four-in-hand, with as much individuality as the bald heads in the Commons. And the "Mike" of yore is now rarely anyone but the Hon. L. B.

It may be a reflection of the growing seriousness of the times—or the man—this gradual conversion of Pearson to more conventional neckwear and nomenclature.

But so far as the ties go, Mrs. Pearson for one thinks not. Her theory is that Mike—L.B.—is so busy, and has so much on his mind, that when he dresses in the morning he just grabs the first tie which comes to hand.

I'm sure Mrs. Pearson won't mind if I don't buy that. Pearson isn't the sort of man who does anything—even such a simple thing as donning a tie—without thinking. No, a more likely explanation is that Pearson has concluded that in keeping with the dignity of his position as Canada's foreign minister, he should dispense with informal neckwear and nicknames—even the "Mike" label he has worn since Gallipoli.

Then, too, maybe somebody mentioned the remark—originally made in reference to Mackenzie King—that Canadians like their politicians and their prime ministers to be colorless.

* * *

However, posterity will still know the carefree convivial Mike of his natty neckwear days. When Finnish sculptor Kalervo Kallio modeled Pearson's bust last year, the latter wore a bow tie for the occasion.

Not the least dismayed by Pearson's growing tendency to abandon his badge of masculine individuality are the nation's political cartoonists. Pearson has a vaguely cherubic face which doesn't lend itself well to caricature, so cartoonists have leaned heavily on his bow tie to identify him.

Those same cartoonists, incidentally, have done something to all of us over the years which hasn't been good. At least, that's the opinion of Prof. J. A. Corry, head of the political science department at Queen's University. Corry was in Ottawa the other day addressing a National Liberal meeting, and bemoaned the disappearance of Jack Canuck, as he put it, "from the cartoons, from the language, and from our consciousness."

You remember the sturdy young man who used to personify Canada—open faced, resolute, clad in breeches, plaid shirt and stiff-brimmed sombrero.

Well, says Corry, "He has been replaced in the cartoons by a dwarfish little man with a bedraggled mustache and a puzzled air, who gives the impression that he had been pushed around a good deal, isn't quite sure who did it or why, or what he can do about it. Almost never does he stand erect and look the whole world in the face the way Jack Canuck did."

And, concludes Prof. Corry, "We lost something precious when we lost Jack Canuck."

Can't one say the same thing about bow-tied Mike?

"The fate of this government is not of great importance, but the fate of governments in democratic countries is vital to the preservation of our system."

"I believe in free enterprise, but I believe free enterprise will be preserved most effectively if the people of this country are convinced that no one has been able to take advantage of the desperate plight in which we find ourselves at this hour."

The Title "Mister"

(From The Ottawa Journal)

THE Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, the Sergeant at Arms, the King of Kings of Ethiopia, the Lyon King at Arms and other glamorous titles have been, for us, a constant delight, brief sparkles of the unusual, so much to be preferred to the modern C.I.C., C.I.G.S. and S.H.A.E.F. It is with distress, therefore, that we read of Pandit Nehru—to us he will always be "Pandit" — deciding he would prefer to be called Mr. Nehru.

This decision has been received with shouts of joy and there has been a great remembering of Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Churchill, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Lincoln and all the others who have — dare we say it? — studiously avoided the taking of fine titles and noble ranks, although we do recall Mr. Churchill's pleasure in being Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, so long as no one called him either "Lord" or "Warden" to his face.

A pandit, we are told, is a man of learning and we have done our best to avoid confusing it with the name "pundit", sometimes applied with little respect to men in public life. It must be recognized that Pandit Nehru is in danger of carrying modesty to the point of immodesty; we have never seen politicians or anyone else ashamed of being M.A.'s or Ph.D.'s, any more than they shied away from the letters "M.P.", and, for this reason, we are concerned about the motives which inspired him.

In the ultimate it must appear that when counts, lords, maharajahs, beguns, ambassadors, mahatmas, princes and potentates are gathered in the sort of conclaves Pandit Nehru attends, the title "Mr." shines as brightly as the rare Koh-i-Noor, a pretentious jewel.

OOPS

Following are two recent examples of the pleasant little mishaps which cheer up the British Broadcasting Company's audience:

A television announcer interrupted his program to say, rather tartly: "People have rung up to say the points of my collar are sticking out over my lapels. I apologize. In spite of the fact that my tie may be slightly crooked, I am now going to read you the weather forecast."

During a program of Scottish country dance music on the B.B.C., a voice broke in to say: "I've got to stop smoking and drinking and going out with girls." Then an announcer broke in to apologize. He explained that a staff member had been practising enunciation and his voice accidentally was superimposed on the Scottish music.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THE bush pilot has won a deserved reputation in the rapid opening up of Canada's formerly inaccessible resources of the north. His courage, daring and ingenuity, and above all his remarkable capacity for improvisation in the operation and handling of a new and often dangerous vehicle, the airplane, can never be too highly praised.

But all that differentiates him from the rest of the frontiermen, when you come to think of it, is his vehicle. Our bush pilots are merely the latest edition of the explorers, prospectors and adventurers who have enriched our country from the time it was first discovered. They went by canoe, pointer, dog-team. And their feats were no less romantic than those of the bush pilots. It simply stands to reason that when the airplane was invented, there were already the adventurous men who would take it into that wild and challenging country where they had been consistently performing miracles with far humbler vehicles, the sled, the canoe and the scow.

When we speak of bush pilots, we might also mention the bush-doctors, the bush-parsons who, for a century and more have been quietly carrying out their work on the frontiers. We have put the emphasis on the word pilot. It should have been on the bush. For if there had never been aircraft, it would be a safe guess that about ninety-five out of a hundred of the men who became bush pilots would have been up somewhere in the bush anyway.

In a conversation with Archdeacon Clarke of James and Hudson Bay, I remarked that it took a good man to go into the north country.

The archdeacon, who drives dog teams, who can mend broken bones as well as souls, who will saw or haul or shovel or carry packing cases for you without the loss of any of his venerable dignity (he is only a boy in his forties) looked thoughtful.

"But it this way," he amended. "It takes a good man to stay in the north."

Bush pilots are just good men who can fly.

Old Warrior

By H. J. J. SARGINT
North American Newspaper Alliance

LONDON.—Some reflections on the storm raised in the House of Commons and — to some extent — throughout the country by Winston Churchill's questions about the appointment of Admiral William M. Fechteler to command the Allied navies in the Atlantic, including the Royal Navy forces of Britain, might be worth recording.

Before Churchill got up to question the Prime Minister, the appointment of Admiral Fechteler was known in England to anyone who had read the newspapers since February 19, when a Reuters dispatch from Copenhagen was published here officially announcing that the Danish Government had approved the nomination and that, when appointed, Fechteler would be regarded as "ranking equally with General Eisenhower."

The next day The London Daily Telegraph published the full story on its front page, announcing that the supreme Allied naval commander of the North Atlantic treaty organization would "probably" be Admiral Fechteler and adding that, according to a Washington statement of the day before, his name would be the only one submitted to the North Atlantic deputies.

Neither The Daily Telegraph nor any other paper, so far as this correspondent knows, commented editorially on the news and no one wrote to the newspapers nor was the appointment discussed to any extent in London clubs.

Two facts stand out from the action of Winston Churchill in Parliament: Churchill's capacity to arouse the country by half a dozen sentences in the House of Commons, and the support given by many Socialist members in the House to him, to the obvious embarrassment of their own leader, Clement Attlee, who—as far as anyone could make out—not only played down the subject of the admiral's appointment, but knew very little about it and this in spite of the fact that Churchill had given him private notice that he would raise the question in the House.

Once again the old warrior has shown his grip of Parliament and his capacity to wake up the people of this country, cold and underfed though they may be.

Americans Skeptical On Eve of Conference

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
Associated Press News Analyst

The United States is putting unusual emphasis this time on its skepticism about good resulting from forthcoming negotiations with Russia.

Heretofore the State Department, while giving off ample hints of its feelings, has entered into the four-power conferences relatively dead-pan. Now it is made clear officially that the American delegation is going to Paris merely to see if Russia might possibly come up with something negotiable.

CONCRETE PROPOSALS

Despite failure of previous conferences, the Western delegations to the preliminary conference which opens in Paris Monday, and the full-dress conference of foreign ministers which is expected to follow in Washington, will have concrete proposals.

They want to talk about possible reductions of Russia's armed forces, about an end of the Russian provocations which have forced the West to divert, into armaments, the effort and resources which might otherwise have gone into continued post-war rehabilitation.

The Russians are also expected to meet Allied probings into the general level of armaments with one of their good-looking but hollow proposals for general disarmament.

Expressions of official skepticism in the U.S. serve as advance public warnings that the Allies have no intention of taking anything less than concrete Russian acts as the basis of any agreement.

The Communists already have tipped their hands on this with demands for a German peace treaty uniting that nation as an unarmed neutral, with subsequent withdrawal of all occupation forces.

But Russia wants to do this by giving Communist-controlled East Germany an equal voice with much larger Western Germany, and by pushing the Allied armies back to France while her own would remain within 60 miles of Berlin.

TO TALK DISARMING

The Russians are also expected to meet Allied probings into the general level of armaments with one of their good-looking but hollow proposals for general disarmament.

Expressions of official skepticism in the U.S. serve as advance public warnings that the Allies have no intention of taking anything less than concrete Russian acts as the basis of any agreement.

Proposal Given Study

Mediterranean Alliance Urged on U.S. by Turks

WASHINGTON, March 2 (INS).—The United States announced today it has under "serious consideration" a Turkish proposal for a Mediterranean defence alliance including the United States, Britain, France and Turkey.

State Department spokesman Michael J. McDermott disclosed that the Turkish Government proposed in January that the United States adhere to the British-French-Turkish Alliance signed in 1939.

McDermott said the matter "has been and is being given serious consideration and has under continuous examination the means by which the strength of the free world can best be developed."

REMAINS CAUTIOUS

He was cautious, in forecasting any early American security commitment with Turkey, but he said:

"This Government is fully alive to the important contribution which Turkey has been making to the free world, and as a result has been giving substantial aid of a military and economic nature to that country."

McDermott further called attention to the fighting qualities of the Turkish contingent in the United Nations army in Korea.

The State Department official indicated however that the "form" of any alliance was secondary to a general knowledge that Turkey is in the free world camp.

TWO-YEAR STUDY

Actually, McDermott disclosed, negotiations with Turkey have been in progress for about two years, during the course of which the Ankara Government made varying proposals designed to commit the United States with Turkey. The alliance proposal was made in late January.

When the Western Foreign Ministers met in New York last September to lay plans for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's European Army, it was decided that Turkey, because of geographical location, should not be included in the North Atlantic Defence Alliance.

Officials frankly viewed the latest Turkish proposal as an effort to become, in effect, aligned with the North Atlantic nations.

Pope Observes Birthday By Working

VATICAN CITY, March 2. (INS).—Pope Pius XII observed his 75th birthday anniversary today with the usual heavy round of official duties and by praying for peace in his private chapel.

Thousands of congratulatory messages poured into the Vatican.

Yellow and white Vatican flags fluttered throughout the tiny Vatican state, but there was no special celebration of the day by the Pope.

The Pope worked as usual in his many tasks as leader of 400,000,000 Roman Catholics.

The high point of the day occurred when members of his immediate family entered his private chapel to hear the Pope say Mass.

The frail Pope was said by Vatican informants to be in good health considering his age and the strain of the immense amount of work his job entails.

Diver Dies At Bottom Of Inlet

VANCOUVER, March 2 (CP).—Diver Bill Zess, 63, died in his diving suit today, the way he wanted it to happen.

Zess was under the waters of Burrard Inlet here salvaging an old pipeline when suddenly men on the tender Sarj Singer heard him on the communication phone: "Pull me up."

Zess was dead when he reached the surface, apparently of a heart attack.

Zess had been a diver for 46 years. His father was the first deep-sea diver in Canada. One of his two sons, Phillip, is also a diver.

Ailing Bevin Out?

Talk of Resignation Rife Despite Denial

LONDON, March 2 (Reuters)—An official denial that Ernest Bevin had decided to resign as Foreign Secretary failed tonight to dispel the belief that he would shortly give up his post.

Reports that he had already taken a personal decision to leave the Foreign Office as soon as a successor could be chosen persisted strongly despite this disclaimer from Prime Minister Clement Attlee's office.

The reports follow a long period of ill health and mounting criticism that Mr. Bevin is unfit physically to continue shouldering the responsibility of Foreign Secretary.

ADVISORY POST

It is thought the 70-year-old Foreign Secretary may remain in the Government as minister without portfolio—that is, largely in an advisory capacity. He has been Foreign Secretary since the Labor Government swept to power in 1945.

Should Mr. Bevin step down, political circles say the most likely candidate for the post is Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison—the man a House of Lords peer said should be Prime Minister if Mr. Attlee would agree to double for Bevin.

Death, Terror Stalk In Communist Swatow

HONGKONG, March 2 (AP).—Death and the terror of an unknown fate stalk each night in Swatow on the Red Chinese mainland facing Nationalist Formosa.

For some time reports have trickled into Hongkong of nightly mass arrests and executions.

Latest report today said 60 or more persons of the thousands already in prison are disappearing nightly while the Red curfew keeps the streets clear.

PURGE REPORTS GROW

Repeated reports of a Red purge throughout China were bolstered last week when the Communist regime itself announced it was having trouble with dissident elements and extended the death penalty to almost any kind of activity of which it might disapprove.

News of the Swatow terror is gleaned from dispatches to a number of Chinese papers in the British colony of Hongkong, notably the independent Wah Kiu Yat Po, which said it has a reporter working underground in Swatow.

Execution of 300 suspected anti-Reds in one group and 170 in another was reported last month. The reporter said he got authentic information from persons living near the execution grounds.

LACK JAIL SPACE

The latest Swatow dispatch, published today, was dated March 1. It said so many persons had been arrested that the Reds had run out of jail space and had "requisitioned the halls of worship of two big Swatow families, the Lins and Lis, as detention centres."

The dispatch said 2,500 persons were being held as suspected Chiang Kai-shek sympathizers and anti-Communists. They were rounded up in a house-to-house canvass.

High Court Will Rule On Communist Bill

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 3 (Reuters).—The High Court of Australia will give judgment March 9 on the validity of the Federal Government's bill dissolving the Communist Party. Air Force Will Fly Wounded Back to Hospitals Near Homes

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP).—Wounded Canadians brought from Korea to this continent will be flown to hospitals near their homes by an R.C.A.F. air ambulance service, it was announced today.

The R.C.A.F. said Dakota transport planes will be used to take the men from McChord Field, near Tacoma, Wash., to veterans' and military hospitals from Vancouver to Halifax.

The announcement said "there is no immediate indication when casualties will begin arriving back from the Korean front." It said, however, it is expected that Canadian wounded requiring medical attention en route will be flown to the United States by the United Nations trans-Pacific airlift service which includes the R.C.A.F.'s No. 426 Squadron.

The first army casualty list from Korea, issued today, showed ten wounded, but some of these will probably be treated in Korea or Japan and in time go back to their unit.

SPECIAL PLANES

The air ambulance service, complete with nurses, will be handled initially by aircraft of the 435 Transport Squadron based at Edmonton. They have been fitted with special oxygen systems and with litters and litter holders. All normal hospital facilities will be available aboard the aircraft.

Veterans' hospitals will accommodate most of the wounded being flown back. As far as feasible, wounded will be placed in hospitals near their homes.

Hospitals receiving the wounded will be: Shaughnessy Hospital, Vancouver; Colonel Belcher Hospital, Calgary; Veterans' Pavilion, University Hospital, Edmonton; Deer Lodge Hospital, Winnipeg; London Military Hospital; Sunnybrook Hospital, Toronto; R.C.A.F. Hospital, Rockcliffe, Ottawa; Queen Mary's Hospital, Montreal; Quebec Military Hospital; Camp Hill Hospital, Halifax.

Offer to Central Saanich Bargain, Kersey Insists

"It's not a question of price, but one of cost."

Saanich Councillor William Kersey made this statement last night concerning recent Central Saanich [illegible] fire-protection for $1,000 a month.

Reeve Pickles has stated that the price was too high.

Controversy has resulted from the Saanich refusal to attend a fire at the home of J. R. Noble in Central Saanich at midnight last Tuesday.

The people of Central Saanich should be informed that Saanich, in offering fire-protection at $1,000 per month, based the figure on previous fire-fighting costs and would probably have lost money on the deal, Councillor Kersey said.

COST $13,215

He then gave figures for 1949 fire-fighting costs under the old ward system. In that year, Ward Six, now Central Saanich, cost the municipality $13,215.30 for fire protection. With present high costs and increased wages, that figure would be nearer $15,000 today, but Central Saanich was offered the service for $12,000.

"Sure, the price is high," Councillor Kersey said, "but the cost of fighting fires is high and Saanich cannot subsidize its former Ward Six at the expense of Saanich ratepayers."

HOURLY RATE

In 1949, an analysis of Saanich fire-fighting costs shows, total fire-fighting expenditures was $89,736. This figure divided by the total number of hours spent on fire-fighting gives an hourly rate of $213.15.

"Central Saanich has a perfect right to reject the offer if it can't pay the price, but in the light of present costs, that price is not exorbitant," Councillor Kersey said.

"Reeve Pickles rejected the offer and then said he expected us to come anyway. Co-operation is one thing but coercion in the form of moral obligation is something else again," he added.

Civil Defence Chief Chosen; Announcement Due Monday

GREATER Victoria's civil defence co-ordinator has been chosen, but his name will not be announced until Monday evening. A sub-committee of the regional control board, after screening 84 applications, yesterday chose the man who will direct civil defence in this area.

His name is being withheld because the sub-committee must submit its recommendation to the entire board Monday at 5 p.m. If the board approves of the screening committee's choice, the announcement will be made.

Final choice was made by ballot. Members of the screening committee were Mayor Percy E. George, chairman, Alderman M. Askew, Reeve Garnish Rogers, J. W. Casey, Esquimalt Reeve A. I. Thomas and Oak Bay Reeve P. A. Gibbs.

Conflicting Medical Evidence Heard At Trial of Accident Damages Claim

Conflicting medical evidence marked the third day in a trial of a damage suit brought by Kenneth Easton, 3441 Bonair Place, on behalf of his nine-year-old son Murray, against City Police Sergeant Thomas Stevenson, yesterday in Supreme Court before Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane.

Represented by H. W. Davey, K.C., Easton is seeking $2,401 in special damages and an unnamed amount in general damages for injuries received [illegible] when he was knocked down by a car driven by Sergeant Stevenson, on October 24, 1949.

Yesterday in court Dr. I. C. C. Tchaperoff, radiologist at St. Joseph's Hospital, called as a witness by Joseph McKenna, K.C., counsel for the defendant, testified that X-ray photographs of the boy's skull and spine showed that he had a congenital abnormality of the first vertebra of the neck.

The abnormality could be mistaken for a subluxation of the spine, Dr. Tchaperoff said.

The X-rays further showed no evidence of skull or cervical fracture or of pituitary disturbance, the radiologist said.

Injuries listed in the Easton claim include laceration of the brain, damage to the pituitary gland, ruptured liver, dislocated neck and cerebral concussion.

Earlier, Dr. H. H. Murphy, radiologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said X-rays taken shortly after the accident, showed a cervical dislocation.

CLINICAL STUDY

Dr. J. G. Patterson, physician who attended the boy, said the other conditions listed had been established by clinical observation.

Dr. Patterson testified that obesity, lethargy and diminished mental activity attributable to cerebral injury had resulted from the accident.

Yesterday, Dr. J. H. Moore, testifying on behalf of the defendant, said that examination of the boy and of hospital records showed no evidence of permanent injury.

Dr. Moore said the Murray's "mental powers" appeared to be unimpaired and that he did not think that they had been retarded by the accident.

OPERATIONS NOT NEEDED

The doctor said he could see no need for further operations on the boy's head or neck for reasons arising out of his injuries, and did not think he was likely to become "grossly obese" as a result of the accident.

Body temperatures ranging from 102 to 105 degrees during the two weeks following the accident he attributed to liver, rather than cerebral, injury.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Davey, Dr. Moore admitted that an attending physician had a better opportunity to make a diagnosis than a doctor who was called in later to make examinations.

The case was adjourned to March 7.

To Entertain Troops

Y.M.C.A. Still Has Need Of Volunteer Hostesses

More than 100 hostesses are still urgently needed to assist in the Y.M.C.A.'s troop entertainment program, Robert Morrison, program director, said yesterday.

The "Y" is rapidly swinging back into a wartime program of entertaining servicemen during their off-duty hours. Already names of more than 100 women who will act as hostesses are on file at the "Y," but the total is not enough.

More troops have arrived in the Greater Victoria area and increasing numbers are showing a marked interest in the thrice-weekly programs put on by the "Y," according to Mr. Morrison.

The Y.M.C.A. is exploring the possibility of providing leave-homes for Canadian Special Force men who come here on embarkation leave from Fort Lewis, Wash., before leaving for Korea. Some of these men are expected to arrive this week-end.

Mr. Morrison has requested that Victorians who would like to co-operate, phone the Y.M.C.A. immediately.

Construction Going Well On New Outdoor Theatre

Victoria's new drive-in theatre, now under construction at Burnside and Tillicum Roads, is expected to be open May 1, officials of the company said yesterday.

Dominion Construction Company Limited, which has the contract to build the theatre screen, projection room and concession stand, is well advanced on the projects.

Cement is also being poured for the bases of metal standards that will carry individual loudspeakers to cars.

The ground has been graded in readiness for expected hundreds of cars. Only other outdoor theatre ever constructed in this area was at Langford on the Island Highway. It is no longer operating.

Duncan's Voters Endorse Plebiscite

DUNCAN, March 2.—City of Duncan residents yesterday endorsed a plebiscite giving garages on Indian land in the city the right to stay open Sundays and holidays.

The vote was 217 for to 114 against —an almost two-to-one favorable verdict.

The plebiscite involved only the City of Duncan, not the whole municipality.

Indian lands on which the garages involved is the original dispute are located include sites in the main part of the city.

Western Loop Sets Play-Off

REGINA, March 2 (CP) — Al Pickard, president of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League, said tonight the three-team round-robin play-off will start March 19. The league schedule ends March 17.

Calgary Stampeders, Edmonton Flyers and Saskatoon Quakers have already cinched berths in the play-off series.

Pickard said each team will play eight games, four home and four away. The top team at the end of the series will be declared league champion.

If two teams are tied in points at the end of the round-robin, there will be a two-game, total-goal play-off to decide the winner.

Already Under Construction

City's First Drive-In Cleaning Unit To Be Completed Within Six Months

Victoria will soon have a new drive-in for dry cleaning, officials of Individual Dry Cleaners disclosed yesterday.

Construction of the unit has already begun at the corner of Vancouver and Fort Streets and should be completed in about six months.

The firm has not yet decided if the drive-in will be a call office for motorists, or a combination call-office and cleaning plant.

The building will cover an area of about 1,069 square feet and will be surrounded by an extended canopy which will cover a large off-the-street parking lot.

Although motorists will still have to get out of their cars to do business with the firm, they won't be faced with a parking problem similar to that which exists in the downtown area.

The project will cost between $20,000 and $35,000.

The steel ban does not affect construction of the one-story building. Architects, Birley, Wade & Stockdill, have designed the unit to use heavy wooden beams instead of steel.

Restrictions Balk Plans For Curling Rink Here

Federal Government ban on construction supplies for sports enterprises has blocked plans for a curling rink in Victoria.

Temporary shelving of the rink project was announced officially last night following a meeting of the Victoria Curling Club's executive.

The club had planned a $125,000 establishment on a 180-by-264-foot site at Pembroke and Quadra Streets.

Executive members said the decision to postpone construction would probably be ratified at a general meeting scheduled for some time within "the next two weeks."

Money subscribed to the building fund would be returned, it was announced. About $15,000 in cash and $30,000 in pledges are involved.

J. E. Neeley, club president, said last night the Victoria Curling Club would continue to function in the hope the rink could be built later.

The president said City Council would be approached by the club's executive in an effort to hang on to the lease for the property on which the rink was to have been built.

At present the club has a 20-year lease on the property, but is faced with the problem of taxes if it keeps its hold on the site.

To End Annoying Cough, Mix This Recipe, at Home

Here is the well known old recipe which thousands of housewives have found to be a dependable means of breaking up winter coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs very little, but it does give quick relief.

From any druggist, get a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup water, stirred until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's easy. (Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) Thus you make 16 ounces of medicine, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This home mixture soothes the irritated throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the phlegm and eases soreness promptly.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a well known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

Mr. Gustav Roemer, 138 Aherns St. W., Kitchener, Ontario, is over 70 years of age and is an engineer who suffered on and off for 16 long years with upset stomach, bilious dizzy spells and indigestion. Mr. Roemer started taking SARNAK and wrote us as follows: "SARNAK brought me relief within a few days. My poor health had made me nervous and almost afraid to eat. I can truly say now that SARNAK relieved my stomach upset and nervousness. I can now enjoy a good night's sleep and I'm grateful for what SARNAK has done for me."

Mrs. F. Plouffe, Point St. Charles, Montreal, Quebec, is 60 years of age and had suffered with rheumatic pain in the knees and sharp pain in the small of the back. After Mrs. Plouffe had used just one bottle of SARNAK she wrote: "I was in such pain I could hardly do my work and had trouble getting my proper rest. The first bottle of SARNAK relieved my pain, allowed me to do my housework and sleep undisturbed. After suffering for so many years, I don't know how to thank you for what SARNAK has done for me."

Mr. Stanley P. Dexter, Deep Cove, B.C., is a retired locomotive engineer and 64 years of age. Mr. Dexter had suffered from arthritic pain in both knees and his left hip for seven years until he started to take SARNAK, but here's what Mr. Dexter says: "I tried many different kinds of medicine to relieve my pain but nothing helped until I started taking SARNAK. I got relief from the first day with SARNAK and continued taking it because of the good it did me. I feel the least I can do is let you know these facts."

Mrs. C. E. Lyons, Burdett, Alberta, is now 74 years of age and has enjoyed good health, but a few months ago Mrs. Lyons started to suffer from rheumatic and arthritic pain in her knees and legs. Mrs. Lyons tried several things but nothing helped. Here is what she wrote after taking SARNAK: "After taking SARNAK for two months I am free of stabbing arthritic pain. Right from the first two or three doses SARNAK helped me. Now, of course, I wouldn't be without it."

N. M. McCallum Honorary President Of U.B.C. Alumni Group in Victoria

N. M. McCallum, chief engineer of the Public Works Department, has been elected honorary president of the Victoria and District Branch of the U.B.C. Alumni Association.

He was named at the annual dinner of the group last night at the Monterey Restaurant.

Other officers elected were Jack Parnall, president; William McCarter, first vice-president; Mrs. Harry Gibb, second vice-president; Miss Gloria Kendall, secretary; Barry Ford, treasurer; and Lloyd F. Detwiller, J. Alan Baker, Gill Gaddes, J. R. Lake, Charles Ozard and H. D. Wallis, executive.

GUESTS ATTEND

More than 50 guests attended the dinner. They included Frank Turner, secretary-manager of the association, from Vancouver, and Dr. John Walker, past honorary president.

Guest speaker was provincial librarian Willard Ireland, who talked on the past and present affairs of British Columbia.

Ten regional scholarships of $250 each have been established by a grant from the 1950 Alumni-U.B.C. Development Fund and will be available to students entering first or second year courses this Autumn.

Mr. Turner also said that $2,500 had been voted by alumni fund directors for the establishment of alumni scholarships on a regional basis. It is hoped that this will be an annual grant.

DISTRICTS

One scholarship will be awarded in each of the following districts:

East Kootenay, West Kootenay, South Okanagan and Boundary, North Okanagan and Thompson, Skeena, North Central, Greater Vancouver and Howe Sound, New Westminster and Fraser Valley, Greater Victoria and Lower Island, Upper Vancouver Island and Powell River.

Winners will be selected on the basis of studies plus "citizenship," and the appointment will be made by alumni committee on the recommendation of selection committees in each area.

Applicants will be ineligible to receive an alumni scholarship if already winner of any other scholarship of higher value.

It was announced that the U.B.C. Players' Club would present the comedy "The Male Animal," by James Thurber and Elliot Nugent, at Victoria High School, March 24. Tickets will be available from the [illegible] members.

Last year, the association was able to donate $50 to a scholarship fund at Victoria College from the proceeds of the play and it is hoped that the figure this year will be doubled.

Public Inquiry Into Liquor Is Proposed

Public inquiry into the manufacture and sale of liquor was called for by the Victoria Presbytery of the United Church of Canada at the conclusion of a three-day conference at Metropolitan Church which ended Thursday.

A resolution called on the Federal Government to appoint a Royal Commission "to make public inquiry into every phase of the manufacture and sale of liquor as well as the drinking habits and customs of the people as they affect the national economy so that the public may be properly informed before any plebiscite or referendum be placed before them."

Along with a day-long conference on evangelism, plans for Church extension work in new housing developments were discussed.

Rev. Robert Moses, pastor of St. Andrew's United Church of Nanaimo was elected presbytery chairman, succeeding Rev. C. R. McGillivary of Victoria, while Rev. C. S. Fleming of Sydney was re-elected secretary.

Warning Given On Dangers Of Communism

A warning that Canadians must awaken to the threat of Communism and start taking an individual active interest in preserving their present way of life was given by Clarke Christie, New Westminster, in an address to the Rotary Club Wednesday at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Christie claimed "the majority of our people dismiss Communism and Socialism with a wave of the hand, and then line up in droves in support of various Socialistic ideas . . . for example, such things as public housing, social security, and federal aid to education."

In a recent public opinion survey the question was asked: "How serious a threat to our democratic form of government do you consider Communism to be?" Results: 34 per cent considered it "very serious"; 33 per cent considered it "fairly serious"; 19 per cent thought it "no threat"; while the remainder were unable or unwilling to supply an answer.

CITES CASE OF U.K.

Many nations, he said, had fallen as a direct result of Socialism. He remarked on present-day England, claiming that nationalization of industry had been a miserable failure; absenteeism was rampant, industries were operating at a loss, taxes were draining the wealth of the nation, and practically everything was rationed.

"The aims of the Communists," he continued, "and their zeal in pursuing those aims, are so openly on the record that a man must be blind to assert that the Communists in Canada are just another political party, or that their activities should be ignored and left unchallenged."

Right and Wrong Way to Fix Plates

This is correct.

This is wrong.

Some motorists are taking line of least resistance and bolting 1951 licence strips to the top of old plates, covering tops of some of the numbers. New strips must be bolted to the lower side of old plate in such a manner that it covers the words "British Columbia," but does not obscure numbers, police say.

ASH PLEA THOUGHT FUTILE

Saanich Reeve Sees Little Chance Province Will Help With Drainage

Recent plea by Saanich M.L.A. Arthur Ash for Government aid to relieve "deplorable conditions" of drainage in Saanich is pretty futile, thinks Reeve Joseph Casey.

Speaking in the Provincial Legislature recently, Mr. Ash called for a Government survey of Saanich drainage and asked the Government to "assist the municipality in what is becoming a serious situation."

"I don't think we can expect much help from the Provincial Government," Reeve Casey said last night. "We will have to be content with our one per cent, like everyone else."

Mr. Ash said the whole district and municipalities of Saanich have been plagued for many years in the matter of drainage."

A new sewer by-law is scheduled to go before Saanich ratepayers this month.

Wage Increase Accepted By Firemen

More than 30 Saanich firemen have accepted a one-year contract, giving them approximately $13 per month more pay as of April 1, and M.S.A. coverage.

The agreement is based on an award of $1 for every point rise in the Dominion cost-of-living index, which, it is calculated, will by April 1, have risen 13 points since the last agreement was signed.

Firemen are members of the International Brotherhood of Firefighters (A.F.L.-T.L.C.), and the new contract was the result of three weeks of negotiation with the Saanich municipal council's bargaining committee.

Reeve Joseph Casey said the same formula is being offered some 70 Municipal Employees' Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) members and 14 policemen who meet with the police commission next week.

Irish Nationalist Finally Takes Seat

LONDON, March 2 (AP)—A. J. Mulvey, 68-year-old Irish Nationalist from Ulster, was sworn in today as a member of the House of Commons—more than a year after his election.

The seating of Mulvey cuts to four the Labor Government's effective majority in the House.

Mulvey, who was chosen in the February, 1950, national election to represent Mid-Ulster (North Ireland), had boycotted the seat until today. This was his way of protesting the continued partition of Ulster's six counties from the Irish Republic.

Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Cooley Honeymoon in California

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Justice Cooley are on their way to Santa Barbara, Calif., for their honeymoon, following their marriage Friday evening at Esquimalt United Church.

Rev. F. R. G. Dredge officiated at the quiet ceremony uniting Elsie Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ingledew, 103 View Royal Avenue, and the son of Mrs. S. A. Cooley, also of Victoria.

Baskets of Spring flowers made an attractive background for the service which was attended by members of the immediate families.

Given in marriage by her father, the pretty bride was attired in a ballerina-length dress of powder blue nylon with white silk thread design, over blue taffeta, fashioned with Peter Pan collar, and three-quarter-length sleeves and worn with blue nylon gloves. Her hat, an Anne of Cleves model, was of the same material as her gown. A double strand of pearls with matching earrings, gifts of the groom, were her only jewelry, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of red roses and white freslas with satin streamers, to complete her becoming costume.

Mrs. B. Shepherd, matron of honor for her sister, chose rose crepe styled with self-covered buttons from a Peter Pan collar to the waistline, and three-quarter-length sleeves worn with black nylon gloves. Her off-face hat was of rose felt with accessories in black. She carried a Colonial bouquet of pink carnations and iris.

The bridegroom had his brother, Mr. Harry Cooley, as best man.

The reception was held at Old England Inn, where Mrs. Ingledew and Mrs. Cooley welcomed friends with the newlyweds. The lace-covered table, decorated with Spring flowers and lighted candles, was centred with a large single-layer square cake. The toast was given by Mr. Ted Baker. Going away, the bride wore a pale blue English wool suit with black velvet hat, black accessories, brown squirrel three-quarter-length coat, and corsage of red rosebuds.

The couple will return to Victoria to make their home.

Port Alberni Social News

PORT ALBERNI, March 2.—Contrasts and similarities between historical England and the England of the present day were drawn by A. Gordon Huson, information adviser to the United Kingdom High Commissioner, Ottawa, when he addressed the Alberni Valley Women's Canadian Club.

He spoke on "The Spirit of Britain" and described how British people rose to meet occasions whether in time of peace or of war.

The great Festival of Britain, planned for this year, he symbolized as the spirit which made the country powerful.

Mr. Huson was heard by a large audience. President Mrs. R. Laver occupied the chair and introduced the speaker.

GIRL GUIDES

Three Girl Guide companies from Port Alberni joined two Guide companies from Alberni at the Alberni Guide Hall to commemorate the birthdays of Lord and Lady Baden-Powell.

The hall was decorated with an international theme and every Guide turned out for the occasion.

Mrs. Neil McLeod, district commissioner, enrolled two Guides, Verna Walker and Kathleen Harmer, with the Second Alberni Company. Doris Jowsey was made a company leader of the Second Alberni Company.

Social Worker on Field Trip Visits Victoria for Two Days

Most social workers find that the problems in one city cause enough headaches but Miss Phyllis Burns has the social problems of an entire country to cope with.

As secretary of the Child Welfare Division and acting secretary of the Family Division of the Canadian Welfare Council, she hears and helps to solve social problems existing in all sections of Canada.

Miss Burns, who makes her headquarters in Ottawa, has been in [illegible] while here she consulted with Mr. E. W. Griffith, deputy minister of welfare and regional officer of the Welfare Council; met with the staffs of family and children's service, Queen Alexandra Solarium; addressed a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Association of Social Workers and met with representatives of the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria.

CONSULTATION SERVICE

"The Canadian Welfare Council offers a consultation service to its member agencies," said Miss Burns, who is on a six-week field trip from Port Arthur to Victoria.

One of the major topics of discussion with local welfare workers was the problem of finding more and better foster homes.

"By hearing the problems of other cities, we can co-ordinate our services and solutions in order that one city may benefit from another's experiences," the visitor pointed out.

Miss Burns is well qualified in her work.

Between the years of 1938 and 1944 she was a caseworker in the Women's Directory, Montreal, the Family Service Bureau, Hamilton and the Children's Service Association (now the Children's Aid Society) in Montreal. In the latter agency she held the positions of senior caseworker and then casework supervisor.

From 1944 until she came to the Canadian Welfare Council in 1947, she was assistant director of the Maritime School of Social Work.

Miss Burns is also secretary of the Canadian Conference on Social Work which meets in 1952 in Quebec City.

A native Haligonian, the social worker graduated in political science and history from Dalhousie University in 1935 and received her diploma in social science at the University of Toronto in 1938.

From Victoria, Miss Burns goes directly to Calgary, then on to Moose Jaw, Regina, Winnipeg, Fort William and Port Arthur. On her way west she stopped in Winnipeg, Brandon, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Vancouver.

Play Groups Hear R. Goodacre

The social and psychological development of the young child was discussed by Mr. Raymond Goodacre, M.A., when he spoke before the Vancouver Island Pre-School Play Groups Association quarterly meeting held in the Memorial Hall.

The speaker, recently of Yale University and now with the Provincial Department of Health, pointed out that the child is born into three environments, physical, social and cultural.

"Socialization begins when the child starts to learn his culture patterns, first in the home and later among his playmates," stated Mr. Goodacre. He pointed out that the play group provides an added opportunity for guided learning and instruction in these patterns.

SPECIAL GUESTS

President Mrs. W. W. McGill welcomed several special guests to the meeting including Miss Marian James, supervisor of primary education for Victoria schools; Mrs. Margaret Hopkins of the Provincial Child Guidance Clinic, and Mrs. Goodacre.

Sixty mothers, representing study and play groups from Elk Lake, Prospect Lake, Langford, Cordova Bay, Colquitz, First Baptist Church, Christ Church Cathedral and James Bay, attended.

Announcements were read regarding the Parent-Teacher Pre-School luncheon on March 29 and the Family Relations Conference on March 30 and 31.

Following the business and address by Mr. Goodacre, tea was served by members of the Cathedral Play Group.

Rev. E. G. Thompson Re-Elected Victoria Presbyterian Moderator

IN CITY CHURCHES TOMORROW

Rev. E. G. Thompson was re-elected moderator for 1951 at the Spring session of the Presbytery of Victoria, Presbyterian Church in Canada, held in St. Andrew's Church on Tuesday and Wednesday.

All congregations within the Presbytery were represented by their ministers and representative elders.

Rev. J. L. W. McLean, convener of Home Missions, reported all fields manned and increases in membership. He expected greater activity in 1951.

Budget givings were oversubscribed in the Presbytery and the general church budget showed an increase of 49 per cent over last year.

A request was made by Knox Church, Sooke, to raise the status of the church to a self-sustaining congregation under the direction of the minister, Rev. Robert Lyttle.

The Presbytery will meet again on September 4 in St. Andrew's Church.

Shipyard Working on Power Barge For Use in Northern Waters

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

By RAY WORMALD

Another Victoria-built vessel will soon be plying waters of Canada's northland.

Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd. was recently awarded a contract to build a large Diesel barge for service on the Yukon River. The order came from the Federal Government. Already a substantial start has been made on the vessel. She will measure 60 by 20 feet, and will be similar in many respects to two other units built by V.M.D. for northern service.

H. S. Hammill, general manager at V.M.D., reports the barge will be built there, then cut into six sections to be shipped by water to Skagway, Alaska, then transported by rail to Whitehorse where they will be re-assembled by a crew of V.M.D. men. The barge will be launched at Whitehorse, undergo her trials there, and then taken under her own power far inland to the point at which she will be used for river crossings. Delivery date has been set for early May.

YARD BUSY

A number of other jobs are keeping V.M.D.'s 300 employees busy these days. Among larger jobs in hand is the conversion of the C.P.R.'s "new" coastal freighter Yukon Princess, which reached the shipyard Thursday night. The 214-foot vessel was brought from the east coast recently, and will replace the veteran coastal freighter Nootka, sold some time ago to Peruvian [illegible].

In converting the ship at a cost of "just under $100,000," V.M.D. workmen will alter the crew's accomodation, install refrigeration, make major changes of the deck layout, increase the cargo space and install new masts, [illegible] and winches. It will be a sh[illegible]ob, and when finished the [illegible]adian Princess will resemble the Chilkoot, a coastal freighter operated out of Vancouver by the Union Steamship Company. The Chilkoot was converted to her present status by V.M.D. some time ago.

NAVY JOBS

Meanwhile, work is progressing favorably on a gate vessel for the R.C.N. at the Outer Wharf plant, and on a naval minesweeper at the Bay Street quarters.

Lack of steel is hampering industrial projects at the yard, but three huge propane gas storage tanks have been completed and a fourth will be finished in a week. All four are to be sent by scow to Vancouver. The tanks are about 85 feet long and nine feet in diameter. Two more such units are to be built for interests in Alberta.

LIGHT OVERRUN

Department of Transport officials wish that mariners would watch where they're going.

They announced yesterday that the No. 6 lighted buoy in the Fraser River is again reported not burning, "having again been overrun and damaged."

It was only a few days ago that one of the department's small lighthouse tenders repaired the light after it had been "overrun and damaged" by another passing vessel.

It's now official: There's no cure for the common cold.

Confirmation of this sorry fact came yesterday from a "Guide to Manufacturers and Advertisers published recently by the inspection service of the food and drug divisions of the Federal Department of Health and Welfare.

The department has 40 inspectors in Canada looking out for the well-being of the popuace in the field of food and drug sales and manufacture.

Outline of the new guide's scope was given by G. K. Beeston, inspector for the Vancouver Island territory.

ACTUAL VERDICT

The guide's actual verdict on cold cures was: "In general no preparation can yet claim to stop, abort, prevent or lessen the frequency of colds."

The preamble points out the "opinions of officials are not law and the final decision rests with the courts of the land."

The new guide for manufacturers and advertisers, besides disposing of the cold cure question, deals with 116 subjects ranging all the way from "scare advertising" to radioactivity, from hay fever treatments to falling hair.

NO HAIR-GROWER

And it's almost as pessimistic about hair growing as about cold curing.

"No product may be claimed to feed the skin, hair or nails," it warns.

The rule book is firm, too, on the matter of vitamins.

"There is in every case a specified method of declaring the actual content of vitamins," it points out coldly, and adds, "it will be apparent such phrases as rich in vitamins, and high potency are out of place."

The department's new book did not have much to say for dentifrices, either.

"They may be expected to assist the tooth brush in exerting a mechanical action in removing food and bacterial placques from tooth surfaces," it observes briskly.

The "man of distinction" type of advertisement was also ticked off mildly.

"While prominent persons may be reported as endorsing a particular thing," the guide remarked, "equally prominent persons could be produced who would not endorse it."

The introduction to the booklet points out the department "has often been asked for its point of view" in interpreting the Food and Drug Act and Food and Drug regulations.

But despite the chiding tone of the response to this request, the local territory was given a pretty clean sheet.

Inspector Beeston reported few prosecutions under the act on Vancouver Island.

NEED ADMIRERS

SHEFFIELD, England (CP)—A research team checking on factory employment here reported that women must be surrounded by men if they are to be happy on the job. Of a sample group of 100 women, 21 left jobs where there were few men.

Commemoration Tablet To Be Unveiled in House

Premier Byron I. Johnson will unveil a bronze tablet at the entrance to the Chamber of the Legislative Buildings on Friday, March 9.

The tablet is to commemorate the historic events connected with the entry of British Columbia into Confederation. It is being erected on the recommendation of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, and will read:

"British Columbia Becomes a Province of Canada, 1871.

"To this land of mountains, lakes, rivers, islands and inlets came explorers, fur traders, gold-seekers and settlers. During the middle years of the 19th century the Colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia were founded and the Stikine Territory was organized. These colonies were united in 1866 as British Columbia, which became the sixth province of the Dominion on 20th July, 1871. Hon. Joseph William Trutch was the first Lieutenant-Governor and Hon. John Foster McCreight the first Premier."

Dr. W. N. Sage, British Columbia member of the board, will represent the board at the unveiling ceremony.

Kinsmen Back Sport Project

CAMPBELL RIVER, March 2—Campbell River Kinsmen have agreed to back the current community project aimed at improving the ball park.

The decision was reached at a Kinsmen dinner meeting held here last night in the Willows Hotel.

Guest speaker was Wilf Anderton, Courtenay, deputy district governor, who gave a full report on a recent Kinsmen National Council meeting in Montreal.

Members voted to assist in the ball park "clearing bee" scheduled for Sunday, and tentatively decided to postpone the Kinsmen Variety Show until Autumn.

London Market Records Gains

LONDON, March 2 (Reuters).—After overnight consideration of the news of Russian agreement to four-power talks, the London Stock Exchange reaction today was one of optimism tempered with caution.

Issues likely to benefit from an improvement in the international situation showed useful gains, particularly rubbers, oils, tins and European bonds. Final levels, however, were occasionally below the best.

On the domestic side, British Government stocks were fractionally firmer and there were small improvements in leading industrials. Rayons and textiles, however, showed dullness.

Selected gold shares improved but coppers eased on profit-taking.

Stock close: Babcock & Wilcox, 60s 9d; Boots Pure Drug, 48s 7½d; Courtaulds, 47s 9d; Hudson's Bay Co., 99s 3d; Imperial Chemical, 44s 7½d; Imperial Tobacco, 98s 9d; Metal Box, 44s 6d; Rand Mines, 146s 3d.

Bonds: British 2½ per cent Consols, 68⅝; British 3½ per cent War Loans, £92 3/16. British Fundings 4's, 1960-90, £108 15/16.

NORMANTON, Derbyshire, England (CP).—Charging through a fence, a heifer escaped from a slaughter-house here and led its pursuers on a six-mile chase. It sent a cyclist into a ditch, scattered school children and chased a bulldog round his yard. It was finally shot by a soldier called from the local drill hall.

BOND MARKET

MONTREAL, March 2 (CP).—Mid-term Government of Canada issues eased slightly in quiet dealings in Montreal bond trading today on continued selling by chartered banks. Provincials and corporations, with the exception of C.P.R. convertibles which rose a point, were generally unchanged in fairly dull trading.

Individuals Trounce Alberni, 57-45, To Extend Series for Casaba Crown

Victoria Individuals fought back into contention for the Vancouver Island senior "A" men's basketball championship last night by whipping Alberni Athletics 57-45 at the Badminton Hall. Alberni won the first two games on its home floor and leads the best-of-five series 2-1. Fourth game will be played at the Badminton Hall tonight and the Athletics, if necessary, on Monday at the same location.

Bolting Alberni with a tight-lipped defence in the first half, Individuals took a six point lead and then coasted home to victory as Athletics struggled to find the range.

BIG EARLY LEAD

Individuals broke a 2-2 deadlock to run up an 11-2 lead before Harry Kermode counted the first point for Athletics. Alberni's second field basket came after more than 11 minutes of play with Individuals leading 14-6 at the time. The Athletics were forced to do most of their scoring from a distance and had to rely on their shots go short from difficult angles.

Sparked by Bobby Boyes and Rookie Wright, Individuals broke away from a 22-18 half-time count to run up a nine-point margin. Athletics reduced it to four points but Jackie Clark and Wright found the range to open up a 14-point margin with four minutes left.

Alberni, Individuals failed to freeze the ball in the late stages. Athletics, accused of playing the match, disappointed as they made hurried desperation shots from far out.

Individual stars were Boyes, Wright, Vince Clarkson and Elmer Matthews while Harry Kermode kept Alberni in the game with a strong defensive performance and a consistent display from the free throw line.

Boyes played a sterling two-way game setting up most of the Victoria plays and checking well on defence. Clarkson was brilliant under the backboards in the first half but fouled out after only five minutes had been played in the second half.

The loss of Clarkson seemed to spark Wright who played a forceful game in the latter part and contributed 14 points. Matthews played like a veteran after repeatedly looking up the defensive clock and the ring in a driving performance.

Although Jackie Clark did not score against the Alberni team, he was instrumental in taking most of the sting out of the Athletics' attack with his defensive play.

Referees Wally Stripe and Bob Webster handled the game well although they called it close. Each team drew 20 fouls with Alberni converting 15 of 23 free shots and Individuals sinking 21 of 31 attempts. Clarkson was the only Individual to foul out while Alberni lost Joe Hutchinson with four minutes left and Charlie Bates with 40 seconds remaining.

Tickets for tonight's game will go on sale at 1410 Douglas Street early this morning. An additional 400 will have been added at the Badminton Hall and a pick-up 18 players are awaited.

Alberni: Bates 1, Andrews 1, Buchanan 8, Reynolds 14, Forrest 5, Mansfield, Leaf, Hurd 7, Lynn 4, Ward 3. Total 45.

Individuals: Hendry, Clark 10, Tooby, Clarkson 7, Currie, Matthews 7, Wright 14, Latimer, Boyes 18. Total 57.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

It was with some trepidation that I saw Jim Eddie start out for the Badminton Hall last night. Saturday is always busy and he is needed up here. Judging from the tone of several letters from Alberni and the reply that a large contingent of Alberni fans was in town to see the third game of the Island senior "A" basketball finals between the Athletics and Victoria Individuals, one had to be prepared for the possibility his was indeed a dangerous mission.

Latest to be heard from are D. G. Cranford and J. R. Smurthwaite, stalwart Alberni fans both and a fellow who rates no consideration because he wrote anonymously. Needless to say, he was the most temperate of the lot. It is with considerable pleasure I am able to report that both Mr. Cranford and Mr. Smurthwaite, particularly the latter, tempered their outbursts which was to be expected with some complimentary remarks. These were hotly appreciated and savored and filed away to be re-read when their recurring feeling of loyalty makes us lose perspective. Besides the compliments aren't cold to one by and they are particularly welcome from those who feel they have a legitimate complaint.

The first two games are history and while there will always be differences of opinion over the officiating in the second game, they would be best forgotten as soon as possible with the wish they may never again crop up to embitter it in the current series or in the ones it is hoped will be played in future years.

While it is only natural for this department to hope that the Individuals will still be able to make it with three straight victories, it won't be too hard to take if the Athletics represent the Island in the provincial final. Both Jim Eddie and myself will hope that if they do, they are able to go on and bring back a Dominion title to Vancouver Island. A victory such as that for the bustling Up-Island centre would be a boon for the sport and would certainly add considerable interest next season if the proposed inter-city league becomes a reality.

Oh yes, Mr. Eddie is back at work at the moment and reports he wasn't molested although denying he were any disguise.

Random Harvest

There has been considerable argument over the number of fouls called in the two Alberni games of the Island senior "A" championship finals. A thorough check of the official scores discovered that 48 personal and two technical fouls were called against the Individuals on Saturday, 18 personals against Alberni. On Friday in the first game, it was 30 against Victoria, 14 against the Athletics. The Alberni team canned 19 of the 27 shots they took from the foul line Saturday, the Individuals, 14 out of 24. On Friday, the A's hit for 15 out of 24 and Victoria 12 out of 18. It must also be remembered that Alberni refused quite a few free shots to take the ball out of bounds in the late stages of both games. The athlete with the oddest name is probably Butch Von Breda Kolff, who plays for the New York Knickerbockers in the pro National Basketball Association. A challenge bowling match at Gibson's Bowladrome, to be played this week-end pits a team composed of Andy Palmer, Harold Paulding, Molly Mapes, Gordie Law and Harry Stuart against Roy Begg, Lloyd Lewis, Andy Nelson, Nick Howard and Ken Munn. Harry Mitchell, sports star and assistant coach of the Y.M.C.A. track team, is to get a new boss later this month. Her name is Ruth Reid. Greatest optimist in hockey at the moment must be Murph Chamberlain, who insists that his Vancouver Canucks can still make the P.C.H.L. play-offs. At least he got a start last night when his team edged Portland Eagles but it is going to take six more wins. . . 300 Nanaimo fans, including a band, were at Kerrisdale Arena Thursday night to see their Clippers take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Allan Cup series with the Monarchs. Unless they stumble against Vernon Canadians, who appear to be a dangerous threat, the Clippers could bring the Allan Cup to the Island. . . Gordie Bell and Bill Wigmore are finding fishing at Macaulay Point fruitful and interesting. Bell has boated fighting Spring salmon weighing 21 1/2 and five pound. Wigmore boasts 23 and 12 pounders. Duck or early morning is the best time and Wonder spoons and Martin silver-scale plugs are the best lure.

* * *

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Cougars and Royals to win tonight's P.C.H.L. games. Detroit, Toronto and Boston in the N.H.L. Individuals to tie the Island hoop final and Shamrocks to win the senior "B" title. Weeks to win today's Jackson Cup game and Victoria College in today's English Rugby. Batting average to date: At bat 117, hits 88, percentage .752.

"Take a Few Millions From Herb," Lone Labor Member Tells House

IN THE LEGISLATURE

The Throne Speech debate will resume in the Legislature at 2:30 p.m. Monday with the following speakers: E. E. Winch (C.C.F., Burnaby), B. M. MacIntyre (Cln., Mackenzie) and R. C. Steele (Cln., Omineca).

By LAWRIE JOSLIN

Everybody in the House, no matter what his political shading happens to be, likes to listen to Thomas Uphill, Labor member for Fernie.

A member of the House for 21 years, the mayor of Fernie has been returned successively in eight general elections. He has sat in the House longer than any other member.

Though not the most polished of speakers, the lone Labor member has a sense of humor which he makes little attempt to hide.

Some said his address yesterday was more serious than usual, but even so Mr. Uphill tickled funnybones.

Even in hospital insurance, a mighty serious subject for most members, Mr. Uphill was able to see a ray of humor.

"Why do we have to raise the premiums on hospital insurance?" he asked. "What's wrong with taking a few millions a year out of my friend Herb's pocket—it's bulging with money."

THOMAS UPHILL

Looking across the floor at the Finance Minister's vacant seat, Mr. Uphill said he was sorry Mr. Anscomb was sick in bed. He said he could not be in the House to hear him.

Most people were under the impression that the three-per-cent sales tax would make up hospital insurance losses, he said.

"I gathered that impression and I'm not exactly dumb," he said.

Increasing premiums would be the Government's downfall, he predicted.

"What's hospital insurance anyway if it isn't social service?" he asked. "Don't be scared of Herb Anscomb. Make him pay. It's not his money he's so tight with."

INCREASED BENEFITS

He favored increasing rather than decreasing present hospital insurance benefits.

For Public Works Minister E. C. Carson the Fernie member had a pat on the back.

But, he added, there was still one road in his riding over which he had to drive with his eyes shut.

"I was afraid I was going to meet my Maker before I got to the end of it," he said.

Rising in turn, Allan McDonnell (Cln., Vancouver Centre) suggested that Opposition Leader Harold Winch was short of ammunition for his address in reply to the Throne Speech.

COMPLIMENT

He said the Opposition leader's speech was one of the greatest compliments ever paid the Government because he had little criticism of its administration.

He spoke from the heart in praise of E. E. Winch (C.C.F., Burnaby), "the sparkplug" of an organization which has built a low-rental housing project for aged persons in Burnaby.

A forceful speaker, like Tory Mrs. Tilly Rolston who startled members with her suggestion that Legislature seats should be reduced in number, Tory McDonnell also jolted the House with his declaration that milk control in the final analysis was a matter of "political expediency."

NARCOTIC CURE

Earnestly he pointed out the menace in the growing use of narcotics and the fact that many young people are becoming addicts. Agreeing that the matter was primarily a Federal responsibility, he urged that British Columbia, like many other Canadian Provinces, establish institutional care to cure addicts of their habit.

Arthur Turner (C.C.F., Vancouver East), complimented Mrs. Rolston for her "fine speech" on Thursday. He suggested that travel must have broadened her mind and urged other members "to see this world before the next."

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer nettled Mr. Turner as he began his address because he wouldn't "stop doodling and listen."

"I can listen to you and doodle, too," explained Mr. Wismer.

"GET IT STRAIGHT"

"I know you're a man of many parts, but I'd like you to listen anyway and get things straight," insisted Mr. Turner.

Later on Mr. Turner lost patience again.

"I wish you'd put your pencil down," he pleaded.

Noting that the views of Mrs. Rolston and the B.C. Temperance League matched his own on liquor, Mr. Turner declared:

"I find myself after quite a few years in the House in the position of getting into bed with a lot of people . . . but don't take me too literally."

Women's Council Seeks Action on 12 Resolutions

A delegation from the Provincial Council of Women, headed by newly-elected president, Mrs. Rex Eaton, yesterday presented the Provincial Cabinet with 12 resolutions covering a variety of subjects.

Enlargement of the milk board to three members, including a woman, and an end to prohibition of the sale of colored margarine were urged.

The Cabinet was requested to ask the Dominion Government for a Royal Commission to study all phases of the liquor problem.

DRUNKENNESS TESTS

A request of the Provincial Council that the Government amend the Motor Vehicle Act to provide for "scientific tests" of drunken drivers was suggested.

The Government was asked to rescind an amendment to the Civil Service Act which prohibits permanent employment in the civil service for a man 45 or over or a woman 40 or over.

Increases in social assistance and mothers' allowances were asked.

ANTI-DISCRIMINATION

Passage of an act against discrimination, similar to that passed by the State Legislature of New York, was suggested.

Implemenation of the law requiring pre-marital blood tests was requested, as were amendments to the Deserted Wives' Maintenance Act.

The council asked the Government to proclaim the dogwood the floral emblem of British Columbia.

In addition the following were urged:

Higher salaries for the teaching staff at the University of British Columbia.

An amendment to the Municipal Elections Act to extend the municipal franchise to spouses of property owners and householders.

A new prison for women at Oakalla.

"Short-Sighted" Policy of B.C. On Alcan Deal Hit by McDonnell

British Columbia is "following a short-sighted policy" and is undervaluing its natural resources, according to A. J. McDonnell (Cln., Vancouver-Point Grey).

He was speaking in the Legislature on the agreement with the Aluminum Company of Canada for rights to 1,600,000 horsepower of hydro-electric energy.

He asserted company operations could be nearly doubled through utilization of B.C. water power, while the only new industry the province would get was what was developed at Kitimat (aluminum ingot).

"We should have placed a value on this water power of ours that would warrant us asking this company not only to manufacture ingot, but also to construct a further manufacturing plant of its own, probably in Vancouver, so that we could get the benefit of employment in that plant," declared Mr. McDonnell.

"NO ONE ELSE WILL"

"If this is not done by the Aluminum Company of Canada, no other organization is going to construct that plant and pay the prices that the Aluminum Company exacts from Canadian purchasers of its products," he stated.

In the United States, 1,700 industries were engaged in manufacture of aluminum products, he said. There are only 71 in Canada.

"The use of aluminum is expanding tremendously and if the ratio of expansion per year keeps up, and this company is able to sell the products of all its plants, British Columbia will not only have leased to this country its water power, but through the extra prices which it charges us for its product we will be paying the carrying charges on its investment within a few years," asserted the Vancouver member.

It is our duty to conserve our resources for future generations," declared Mr. McDonnell.

He said, also, he thought the province was undervaluing its position in regard to forest management licences.

"I am convinced that in all of these forest management licences which we have granted that we very well might have included in the contract provisions calling for the construction, not only of a pulp mill but of a paper mill so that we could be exporting our timber in paper form rather than in pulp and thus we would have provided employment for a tremendous number of citizens, making the paper that is being made by workmen and women in the foreign lands to which our pulp is shipped," continued Mr. McDonnell.

A similar far-sighted policy should guide development and exploitation of mines resources, the member asserted.

Committee to Hear Opinions on Charter

THE Private Bills Committee of the Legislature at 9:30 a.m. Thursday will hear all parties interested in the proposal to postpone until next year a major revision of Vancouver's charter.

The committee met briefly yesterday before deciding to hear arguments for and against postponement next week.

A motion submitted to the House by Municipal Affairs Minister R. C. MacDonald asked postponement, saying interested parties had not been given enough time to study the revised charter.

Canada, U.S. Services Holding Joint Meet

Commanders of the navy, army and air force districts of both countries will attend a meeting between officers of the Canadian and United States armed services in the Pacific Northwest.

The meeting is one of a number of routine conferences called from time to time to discuss mutual defence problems. It will be held in Vancouver on March 6 and 7.

Pipe This, Grandpa . . .

Well . . . I'm back in my ditch, that one I began, about one foot deeper . . . in the hard-pan. I've been backing away, full of regrets, as the deeper I go, the tougher it gets. Thots I have had of abandonment, 'cause it's getting harder, like cement. And smack in the midst of a hefty clout, I doubt if her wash will ever hang out. But a man came along, & took a peeper, "you'll have to," he chirped, "go a lot deeper." "Yes . . . I 'spose," and gave another swing, "but I'm good & fed up, with the d . . . thing." He sized up my pole, then stepped off its feet, taking measured strides . . . & then did repeat. "Yep," he affirmed, "a better foothold, 'tho you DO get 'er up, she'll never hold. Another 3 feet, is what I'd say, yep . . . then she'd hold . . . & wouldn't away." Now rude, I didn't want to appear, "do you," I asked, "live around here?" "Yep," he replied, "down the road a piece, maybe we'll buy, right now, we lease. We have a pole, but not as stout, anyway, the Mrs. sends most things out." He took out his pipe, then scraped the bowl, as deeper I went, down in my hole. "I read in the paper the other day, about ANOTHER man here in Oak Bay. Let's see now, if I remember, he started his . . . way back in December." He lighted his pipe, out went the match, then on my pole another scratch. "Yep," he continued, scratched the next on his shoe, "this fellow is havin' the same trouble as you." I put down my pick, & sat on the clay, "well," I remarked, "now, . . . you DON'T say?" "Yep," he chirped, on his pants scratched the next, "& the guy is sore-tried & somewhat vext." "Hmmmm," I smiled, in a mood that was lighter, I reached in my pants, & offered my lighter. "This other chap, of whom you speak, don't you think his pomes rather weak? I read 'em too, & I think the poor 'chap, is a frustrated sort of married sap. I don't even think he's digging a hole, nor do I think, he's got a pole. He's just making it up, some copy to get, THAT, Grandpa, is what I bet. Just a stunt, & that's for sure, of peddling appliances & furnit-ure. And I see he was writin' the other day, a big flock of dishes he's giving away. With every chrome set, that any dame wishes, FREE she gets some 32 dishes." "Well . . . I think," sed Gramps, "from the truth he's not wide," as another match on a rock, he tried. Then holding his hands in the shape of a cup, "it doesn't read like he's making it up." I slid down in my ditch, spit on each palm, then onto the pick, again I did glom. "Well," sed Gramps, "I guess I'll be going," a deeper blue the hard-pan was showing. "I'll see U again, when deeper, your hole, & give U a hand to raise up that pole." "O.K.," I replied, & waved him a shout, I thot his pipe was still out. "If you're reading this Gramps, from where you sit, tell me, eh . . . did you GET THE THING LIT?"

Sixty Per Cent of Children Require Dental Treatment

EXAMINATION of Greater Victoria school children showed 60 per cent of them needed dental treatment, Health and Welfare Minister Douglas Turnbull said in the Legislature yesterday.

He said that, outside of Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver, on the other hand, 85 or 90 per cent needed treatment.

Full-time dentists are on the staffs of Victoria, Vancouver, Burnaby and North Vancouver School Districts now, said Mr. Turnbull, and arrangements are being made for preventive dental service in eight other school districts.

Drinking Habits of B.C. Draw New Fire in House

British Columbia's drinking habits came under fire in the Legislature again yesterday—this time from the C.C.F. side of the House.

C.C.F.-er Arthur Turner agreed with Conservative Mrs. Tilly Rolston, who Thursday demanded a Royal Commission to inquire into the whole liquor-selling business.

Mr. Turner's request was for an impartial inquiry into "the whole business—manufacturing, importing, distribution and consumption."

"A report could give the right lead to the Government instead of making a few guesses at what were the right questions for a plebiscite," he asserted. "A plebiscite in this instance would be just nonsense.

"How do we know it's not true that the liquor people and the Government are very close and have a direct interest in each other?" he asked.

Mr. Turner charged that the liquor laws were being openly violated in Vancouver night clubs. He said that when the Attorney-General stated the matter was the responsibility of the Vancouver police force, "I think the Attorney-General has some reason why he won't touch it."

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer replied that, as a member of the House for a metropolitan Vancouver constituency, it was Mr. Turner's duty to go to the Vancouver Police Commission if he found anything wrong.

POLITICAL FOOTBALL

"Why does he try to make a political football of it?" he asked.

Mr. Turner said it would do no good to go to the Vancouver Police Commission.

"It ill becomes the Attorney-General to talk about political footballs," he said. "If anyone has kicked political footballs around it's him."

Uphill Wants Plebiscite

Legalized Sweepstakes Suggested for Province

A plebiscite on legalization of sweepstakes was urged in the Legislature yesterday by Thomas Uphill (Labor, Fernie).

He predicted an affirmative majority.

"It would be no trick at all in this country to work out some kind of distribution system for the proceeds of sweepstakes to assist not merely hospitals but every kind of welfare service that now requires expensive campaigns to barely keep alive," stated Mr. Uphill.

In nearly all districts of the province, he said, lotteries are conducted by many organizations, including churches.

"Children are encouraged to sell tickets for school bazaars," he said. "Everybody does it. So let us get away from hypocrisy and adopt a commonsense attitude on this issue."

"Sensible" governments follow the examples of Ireland and Australia, he said.

"The hospitals of New South Wales get five million a year from state lotteries run twice a week," he asserted. "A hundred thousand tickets are sold at about $1.25 a ticket with a top prize of $25,000."

SEVEN YEARS LATER

PRESTWICK, Scotland (CP). — The Transport Ministry ordered the requisitioning of three roads here. Then it was discovered the roads had become part of Prestwick airport's main runway seven years ago.

Budget May Be Presented In Legislature Wednesday

THE provincial budget will be presented in the Legislature next week by Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb. Indications are the budget will be delivered on Wednesday, but delay of a day or two may occur if Mr. Anscomb has not recovered from an attack of influenza which kept him out of the House this week.

Milland to Star in Comedy As First Job for Warners

HEARD IN HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 2 (INS).—Ray Milland's first picture on his [illegible] for Warners is to be "Ride for Midge." His boss, Jack Warner, has decided to start Ray off with a laugh instead of a drama—or a bottle.

The studio bought this human interest comedy from Good Housekeeping Magazine several years ago, but it has never had just the right star for the James Webb story until Ray came along.

I might add, everybody on the lot is really happy over having Milland around. He's a good actor and, even better, pleasant to work with.

R.C.M.P. STORY

Wendell Corey is winging home from the film festival in Uruguay to co-star with Stewart Granger in "Constable Pedley"—Wendell's second picture in a row on the M.G.M. lot.

The tall Wendell, who kids about being the only actor in the world who does not look like an actor, plays the determined Canadian Mountie who pursues his man (Granger) all over some icy location shots.

I was interested to hear that this adventure story would be directed by Andrew Marton, who made "King Solomon's Mines," a top box office picture which is also up as a "best picture" for an academy award.

From the desert to the snows for Marton.

Corey's first at M.G.M. on loan from Hal Wallis was "Rich, Young and Pretty."

MAE COMES WEST

After two years away from Hollywood, ten months of it spent in London, Mae West breezes in Sunday and starts her Biltmore Theatre stint Monday. People who caught her in her show in Phoenix say the buxom babe looks terrific and likes three miles a day to keep her streamed lines.

"If I don't watch my figger—nobody else will," she wisecracks in her old come-up-and-see-me-sometime voice. The strict food rations in London, says Mae, were hard on a gal's curves.

ASKS FOR MORE

John Barrymore Jr.'s price for making a picture is no longer peanuts. He is asking $50,000 to play the lead in "The Dreadful Summit" for Eagle-Lion.

This is a story based on the mystery novel of the same name by Stanley Ellen. John wants to do it and Philip Waxman, New York stage producer, who is producing it, wants him if they can get together on salary. The Barrymore name is certainly worth something, in addition to which John has done well in the two pictures he's made.

RANDOM SNAPSHOTS

I hear Hedy Lamarr is not amused by all Bob Hope's wisecracks on the set. Maybe he just isn't impressed by glamor in large doses.

Ginny Simms is doing her night clubbing with her mother—two nights in a row at the Encore.

Ricky Soma goes to Europe March 15 with Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall to be with John Huston while he shoots "African Queen" with Bogey and Baby in Africa.

George Jessel and Abigail Adams were at the Mocambo applauding Connie Moore. So were the Bob Cobbs.

Some wedding gift to Les Barker and Arlene Dahl from Sol Lesser. He's paying all bills for the European honeymoon. They're being married April 17 in New York and sailing the next day.

Gentle Lush, Invisible Rabbit Friend Make "Harvey" City's Top Film Fare

By RON BAIRD

A gentle lush named Elwood P. Dowd and his pal Harvey are the nicest cinematic people in town at the moment.

Elwood (James Stewart) and an invisible rabbit wander through Harvey (Universal - International to make it one of the best films to come along in many a moon.

Harvey, an invisible six-foot-three ball of fluff, and Elwood spend most of their time spreading cheer and buying people drinks in Charlie's Bar until Elwood's sister (Josephine Hull) thinks the time has come to commit him to an institution.

She takes him to Chumley's Rest, a home for people who see six-foot-three rabbits, but a mix-up by the staff has her locked up and Elwood let loose.

DEVELOPMENTS

After Elwood and Harvey triumph over the diagnosis of a couple of psychiatrists, his sister becomes convinced that Chumley's Rest is the home of the white slave ring; Elwood's niece, who is on the lookout for a young man, winds up with the rest home attendant; Dr. Chumley himself wants Harvey as a friend and a young doctor and nurse from the institution find that love is not blind after all.

Harvey was the brainchild of playwright Mary Chase, who also worked on the film script. It was one of Broadway's most successful plays when it appeared in 1944.

A Pulitzer prize-winner, Harvey originally starred Broadway actor Frank Fay but James Stewart took over the role for a while. Josephine Hull, as Elwood's sister, was also one of the Broadway cast.

Look Magazine gave Jimmy Stewart an award as "best actor of the year" for his part in the movie.

Harvey and Elwood, who attempts to persuade the world to follow the path of amiable lunacy and does a good job of it, make this film top-family.

* * *

Pagan Love Song (M.G.M.) proves two things.

One: That there are places in the world where there are more ways of making a living than working. Two: That the combined forces of a Technicolored Tahiti, the bronzed beauty of Esther Williams and the warbling of a competent singer-like Howard Keel can fail to be good screen fare.

Esther plays a Tahitian half-caste who meets, loses and finally wins a plantation boss (Howard Keel) who arrives from Ohio.

GOOD MOMENTS

Filmed in Hawaii, Pagan Love Song produces a couple of good moments with the slick dancing of a group of natives but fails otherwise with a watered script and lines like "I never felt more Tahitian" as Keel and Williams kiss in front of the setting sun of a sound stage.

A couple of impromptu water ballet scenes provide Esther with a bit of action and Howard Keel strikes up a song at the drop of a coconut, but otherwise you would get just as much kick out of staying home and studying the travel folders.

Concussion

By DR. J. B. WARREN

In boxing, football or other game and occupation where the individual receives a blow on the head, and gets knocked out, the physician X-rays the skull to see if any fracture has occurred which may require operation to prevent paralysis or even death. Fortunately, in most cases, especially boxing and football, only a concussion has occurred which usually causes loss of consciousness for a short time. In concussion the whole brain has received a shaking up within the bony skull. This disturbs the brain but as there is no fracture, or real damage done, complete recovery is rapid.
